U. S. SEETHING IN ANGER OVER WARD SEIZURE

Political Issue of First Magnitude.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 7.—The spectacle of two soldiers carrying Sewell Avery out of government seized and militarily occupied Montgomery Ward's of which he is president touched off a conflagration of public opinion fraught with political portents of the first magnitude.

Sewell Avery.

The cities and towns and hamlets and farms are afire with protest against government seizure of private property unconnected with war production and with apprehension of the advent of dictatorship, if one may judge from the volume of mail swamping members of congress. Senators and representatives say they do not recall a parallel of the state of public mind evoked by the seizure of the mail order house.

It was this upsurge of popular indignation that swept aside the initial obstruction offered by administration leaders and cleared the way for an investigation of the episode by each house of congress.

Bares F. D. R. Aims.

The incident has served to focus the spreading feeling in congress and the country at large that President Roosevelt is steadily building a totalitarian dictatorship partaking of a combination of fascism and communism that, if he is successful in his undertaking, will doom democracy in this nation.

The Montgomery Ward affair suddenly has become the incarnation of a political issue of great moment in the approaching Presidential election. It gives form and substance to the Republican indictment of the Roosevelt administration for overriding the Constitution and seeking to establish the domination of the legislative and judicial branches of the government by the executive. Hence the Republicans have welcomed the incident as providential aid to their cause and have adopted the picture of the two soldiers carrying Avery out of his place of business as a 1944 campaign poster.

Democrats Panicky.

Democratic leaders are a prey to misgivings that the affair bodes the fourth term no good. The seizure of Ward's had no more than been ordered than the Democratic high command recognized it as an egregious political blunder. Feverish efforts were made to retrieve the mistake.

Byrnes brought pressure to bear on Ward's directors, including George Whitney of J. P. Morgan & Co., to dissuade Avery from forcing a showdown with the administra-

Defeat Hitler First, Empire Premiers Say

LONDON, May 7 (AP).—The premiers of the British empire disclosed today that the "beat Hitler first" strategy of the allies has won their solid approval, while the western invasion command kept the Germans guessing about when and where the climactic blow is coming.

John Curtin.

Indorsement of the allied nations' global war policy was announced by Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia, who urged on behalf of his own country that the Pacific not be forgotten while Germany is being conquered.

Calls for "Minimum Effort."

"Australia," Curtin said in a BBC broadcast, "lays stress on the importance of combined allied military effort against Japan, and, while recognizing and accepting the strategy of 'beat Hitler first,' points out that, because that will mean prolonged war in the Pacific, it is essential that a certain minimum effort must be maintained in the Pacific so that prolongation will not become stalemate.

"This point of view has been completely accepted by the prime ministers' conference."

It's the "Hush Before the Storm."

Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee, addressing an audience of pre-service boy and girl cadets at Harrow, Middlesex, said there is coming "very soon a great adventure overseas."

Thomas Johnson, secretary for Scotland, told a May day gathering: "We are in the hush before the storm. Soon there will break out on the continent a life or death struggle in which almost every home in this land has a living stake."

Nazis Make More Boasts.

German broadcasters who have been predicting that invasion would commence before the month's end came up with new boasts that the Atlantic wall stretches impressively from the Arctic to the Adriatic.

Another Nazi commentary said the "west wall" is now manned by troops from Germany's bombed cities, possibly on the theory that they are able to generate more hatred and thus fight more ferociously.

DE GAULLE ASKS ALLIANCE WITH "DEAR RUSSIA"

ALGIERS, May 7 (AP).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle in a speech at Tunis today marking the first anniversary of that city's liberation said France wished "direct, practical cooperation" with the western powers and permanent alliance with "dear, powerful Russia." He assailed allied doubts about his French national committee of liberation.

He said efforts of resistance groups within France in the last year against the German war machine might some day "make an impression upon those who retain doubts regarding France."

F. D. R. Back After Month's Rest

Washington, D. C., May 7 (AP).—President Roosevelt came back to Washington today from a month's vacation on the plantation coast of South Carolina, tanned, rested, and described by his physician as in "excellent shape."

He spent the vacation at Hobcaw Barony, Bernard M. Baruch's estate near Georgetown, S. C., and told reporters, before leaving, that he was feeling a great deal better.

Mr. Roosevelt's doctor, Vice Adm. Ross T. McIntire, declared:

"My own feeling is that we gained everything we expected from a four weeks' rest and I am perfectly satisfied with his physical condition."

Hull Meets Special Train.

Secretary of State Hull met the chief executive when his special train rolled in this morning and rode with him to the White House. White House officials said the President would confer with congressional leaders tomorrow morning.

During the month's rest the President eased up, sleeping 12 hours a night; working at times, sopping up sunshine, fishing, cruising waterways and highways, and looking in on scenic and historic spots.

He returned to the capital with a vastly improved color and with some of the tired seams smoothed from his face.

The President had no comment on such matters as the controversy surrounding governmental seizure of Montgomery Ward & Co. in Chicago. Nor had he been able, he said, to give any attention yet to the appointment of a successor to the late Secretary of the Navy Knox.

Bought Plantation in 1905.

Baruch, New York financier and elder statesman of the administration, bought the plantation in 1905. Its 23,000 acres stretch across a peninsula from the Atlantic ocean to Winyah bay, and the Baruch mansion is located on the bay, four and a half miles from a highway. The coast guard, marines, and the secret service saw to it that no outsiders traversed those four and a half miles or came too near by water.

The President had been besieged by illnesses in Washington. He had been unable to shake off the effects of the flu. Colds and reinfections set in and bronchitis developed.

Traces of the bronchial congestion have disappeared now, McIntire said.

4,500 PLANES POUND EUROPE IN 2 WAY BLOW

Carry Air Offensive Into 24th Day.

LONDON, May 8 [Monday]—(AP).—R. A. F. raiders hammered targets in occupied Europe last night after more than 4,500 allied planes—including many American heavy bombers—battered Berlin, Bucharest, and other objectives in a two way assault that probably was the most concentrated of the war.

Specific targets of the R. A. F. were not disclosed in a preliminary British announcement of the raids, which opened the 24th consecutive day of aerial blows. Reports from the English coast said eastbound planes were heard passing overhead continuously for 45 minutes.

Light German aerial activity, meanwhile, was reported over coastal districts in southern England during the night, but an official announcement said neither casualties nor damage resulted.

Nazis Say 1,000 Killed.

A fleet of 2,000 Fortresses, Liberators, and long range fighters loosed thousands of tons of bombs on Berlin and the Munster-Osnabruk area of western Germany.

Via Stockholm came a Berlin dispatch which said 1,000 or more persons were killed in the Nazi capital and that the Germans were saying now the city had been "condemned to death" by the allies.

Other formations flew from Italian bases to bomb Bucharest in the third straight day of nonstop blows at Romania's rail centers and oil supplies.

The British based invasion fleet of 1,000 heavy bombers and another 1,000 fighter fleet hit Berlin and western German targets at the cost of eight bombers and five fighters, in contrast with the loss of 63 heavy bombers during the last American raid on Berlin eight days ago.

"Ran" All Way to Berlin.

Sgt. Joe Gerrans, Muskegon Heights, Mich., a Fortress waist gunner, "ran" practically all the way to Berlin and back, he said. Less than an hour after the take-off his electrically heated flying suit burned out and he was unable to repair it. He spent most of the time thereafter jogging up and down to keep warm.

Lt. Francis L. Jordak, 8600 Georgiana av., Morton Grove, Ill., reported "it was 42 degrees below, the coldest weather I've experienced in my life."

Bucharest's rail yards, terminal for the Balkan network of rail communication and supply routes, were left burning from great explosions. The day raiders struck after a night bombing of Bucharest by the R. A. F.

Bomb Vital Rail Bridge.

One formation of the heavy bombers loosed its explosives on the Belgrade-Pancevo bridge, on the one rail line open to the Bulgarian capital of Sofia on the Orient express route. The bridge spans the Tamis river a mile and a half from the Danube.

American Marauder bombers kept up the steady rain of steel on German targets in France, making their deepest penetration of the war in an attack on the railway center of Mezieres-Charleville about 120 miles northeast of Paris and 135 miles inside France.

Smaller forces of these fast, twin-engined bombers attacked railway yards at Aerschot and Malines, Belgium, and Le Mans, France. Escorted Liberators attacked targets in Belgium.

SAY STATE DEPT. MISLED PUBLIC

British Charge Garbling of Facts on Spain.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 7.—Charges that the United States department of state gave the American public a garbled version of the wolfram [tungsten] export agreement with Spain "in order to save face" were made today by the diplomatic correspondent of the Sunday Dispatch.

The state department, in a press conference statement, indicated it gave way, under British pressure, to a partial reduction of wolfram exports to Germany as offered by Premier Franco. The writer says, "In justice to our government it is only fair that the true facts be known."

In the negotiations, according to the diplomatic correspondent, Franco made it quite clear that he was willing to reduce his supplies of wolfram to Germany to an amount varying to the extent of 20 per cent.

"Beyond this he refused to budge an inch," it is stated.

Forced to Compromise.

The United States government, which "for weeks had given its public to understand it was adopting a 100 per cent 'tough' attitude toward neutrals supplying war materials to Germany," was faced, with the British, with the prospect of either accepting the offer or rejecting it, the British public was told. It was because the rejection might swing the Spanish government back to an all-out anti-allied policy that the United States government saw the practicability of acceptance as suggested by the British.

"But the facts show that the picture of honest to goodness American diplomacy having to give way under pressure from the British government, intent upon appeasing Franco, is not accurate," the writer said.

Won 'Battle,' Says Franco.

MADRID, Spain, May 7 (AP).—Chief of State Franco referred to what he called victorious "battles of peace" in a ceremony at Sevilla today, and the press made it clear that one of those victories was renewed United States oil shipments in return for Spanish restriction on ore exports to Germany.

The first vague press comment on the successful negotiations with Spain by the United States and Britain coincided with publication of a decree promising gasoline rations next month would be increased to equal those existing Feb. 1, when the allies slapped on the oil embargo.

Irish Tell Why They're Not in War: Japs Haven't Hit Them

BY HOWARD WHITMAN.
[New York News Correspondent.]

DUBLIN, May 7.—When you chide an Irishman for being neutral, he has a stock answer. Here's how Daniel McCory, who took me around Dublin in a horsedrawn cab, sprung it:

"Wasn't America neutral for two whole years?"

"Yes," I admitted.

"And what made you finally go to war?"

"The Japs attacked us," I replied.

"That's exactly how we feel about it," said McCory. "We're going to fight when the Japs attack us."

I believe it's a fair estimate to say that of Ireland's population of 2,989,700, about 90 per cent hope for an allied victory and that 10 per cent are either indifferent or pro-German. But the 90 per cent merely hope for an allied victory; they don't want to lift a finger to help it for fear of jeopardizing their neutrality.

Irish Fear Bombs.

"De Valera's kept the bombs away, and that's good," the man in the street tells you. You hear it on every hand. Dublin has caught a few bombs, dropped reportedly by mistake, and every Irishman has heard tales—often greatly exaggerated—of the pastings that belligerent Belfast took two years ago. The fear of heavy bombings has influenced the common man's views on neutrality more than anything else.

The Irishman is an excellent guerrilla fighter, but doesn't care much about complicated modern war, especially air war. I was surprised to see concrete air raid shelters in the Dublin streets, some 2,000 of them built at a cost of $1,000 each, a strange precaution for a neutral capital. But there is absolute terror of bombs here.

Would Defend America.

Deputy James Matthew Dillon's is the most eloquent, and often the only, voice in the dail [parliament] favoring pro-allied neutrality or participation in the war. He reiterated to me a remark with which he recently shocked his constituents: "If America stands in danger of defeat, I am in favor of going to her aid, horse, foot, and artillery."

Dillon, a paunchy man whose trouser legs end three inches above his ankles, opposed the ruffling of American feelings by such acts as Ireland's refusal to send the axis diplomats home. He charged in the dail that when the United States note to De Valera was received, Ireland began to rush its army toward the border, "careening our troops up and down the country and deploying our forces as if to resist some act of aggression."

The story goes that during this deployment, De Valera called an emergency war conference. In the middle of it a message arrived from the British war office asking, "Can you accept delivery on 8,000,000 rounds of ammunition and 157 motorbiles?"

Don't Want U. S. Propaganda.

The war conference, somewhat embarrassed, replied that it would be delighted to take delivery. It was then necessary to modify the furious pace of the troop movements in order to collect the British ammunition and vehicles.

David Gray, United States minister to Ireland, has the task of handling United States-Irish relations, now at their lowest ebb. He invited me to dinner at the luxurious United States legation in Phoenix park. Gray, who has wild eyebrows and white hair, is a fashion plate. He came to dinner in a blue velvet suit and patent leather slippers with bows in front. He couldn't hide his disappointment at the growing estrangement of Ireland and America —"two old friends."

Ireland is so passionately neutral that it will not even allow American flags to be shown in movies or films of American troops, or any movie which strongly upholds the cause of the allies. Frank Aiken, minister for the coördination of defensive measures, insists that he does not want America to "ram propaganda down our throats."

Washington, D. C., May 7 (AP).—The United States holds 183,618 prisoners of war, the army reported today in a statement.

Of the total, 133,135 are Germans, 50,136 are Italians, and 347 are Japanese. They are housed in 203 camps located in 41 states.

The war department emphasized the value of the prisoners in alleviating the labor shortage in this country, saying their utilization, under terms of the Geneva convention, resulted in 19,300,321 man-days of employment between June, 1943, and the end of March, "without putting them into competition" with American labor.

Reëducated Politically.

The statement said the practice of deploying prisoners thruout the country is an important instrument in their political re-education.

"It is believed by prisoner of war camp authorities," the army said, "that the best indoctrination for democracy will be in the observations made by the enemy prisoners of war as they work in American communities, and as they absorb material from newspapers, books, motion pictures, radio, and correspondence courses which they acquire in the camps."

The report said 285 prisoners have escaped and, up to Wednesday, five still were at large. The five escaped within recent days, it said.

In general, conditions are "very much against the possibility" of any prisoner making good his escape, the department said.

Emergency Work Told.

"There were 3,500 prisoners of war moved into sugar cane fields of the south within three days after a freeze—an emergency which made is necessary to harvest the crop within a week. Use of the prisoners of war in the south has occurred not only in the cane crop, but also in cotton, rice, and peanuts.

"Harvesting and canning of fruits and vegetables have been expedited by the use of this source of labor in western New York, southern New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, northwestern Ohio, southern Michigan, central Indiana, southern Wisconsin, and southern Minnesota.

Contracts in Michigan.

"Typical of the use of which prisoners of war may be put in an area is southwestern Michigan, all within a radius of 10 miles, in which 19 contracts have been arranged, to run thru the summer. They will require an aggregate of 237,290 man days, with a wage total of $1,172,222 to be paid by the employers.

"Right now a need is developing for at least 10,000 prisoners of war to help harvest and process food crops in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and to some extent in Minnesota, Wisconsin, and northwestern Ohio."

CHAPLAIN TELLS 'MIRACLES' OF NIGHT VICTORY

Americans Prove They Can 'Take It.'

This is the second article in a series called "God on a Battle Wagon," by the former chaplain of the U. S. S. South Dakota, the famous "Battleship X." Yesterday he told of the ship's baptism of fire in the battle of Santa Cruz and today he tells the story of the night battle of Guadalcanal, which Adm. William F. Halsey has called the navy's biggest slugging match since the Civil war.

BY CAPT. JAMES V. CLAYPOOL.
[Chaplain Corps, United States Naval Reserve.]
AS TOLD TO CARL WIEGMAN.
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Navy men say that in battle there are only two kinds of men—those who can take it and those who can't. On the momentous night of Nov. 14-15, 1942, when I was chaplain of the battleship South Dakota, I learned that men with a meaningful faith in God could "take it."

The crew of the South Dakota was cocky after our first battle on Oct. 26, when we shot down 32 Japanese planes and successfully protected the aircraft carrier Enterprise. In that fight we had lost one man. Our captain, Thomas Leigh Gatch, had been wounded, but he was well enough to take the bridge three weeks later when we fought the night battle of Guadalcanal.

Foreknowledge of Battle.

We knew all that day before the battle that we'd soon go into action again. During the afternoon announcements over the ship's loudspeaker system told us to be prepared to stay all night at battle stations. It was a Sunday, the only Sunday I could not conduct church services in 20 months on the South Dakota.

Early in the evening we were released briefly for chow, then sent back to battle stations. The hatches were closed and the great ship became a honeycomb of sealed compartments, with the water and ventilating systems shut off. A shell thru a water main might drown men and the ventilators would help spread fires.

We wore our helmets and kept our gas masks beside us. Our collars were buttoned up, our sleeves rolled down, our pants tucked into our socks. These precautions were against flash burns. In my pocket were the syrettes of morphine that every officer carries to administer to wounded men.

Chess Didn't Appeal.

At my battle station in the sick bay I tried to play chess with Dr. Walter W. Crowe, the senior dental officer. Somehow, we couldn't keep our minds on it. I started to read a book called "How to Keep a Sound Mind," but made little progress.

The hours dragged. Several times the ventilating system was turned on for brief periods to clear out the foul air. As midnight approached the loudspeaker brought us a warning that we might open fire at any moment.

The South Dakota and her sister ship, the battleship Washington, with several destroyers, were running toward the narrow passage between Guadalcanal and Savo Islands. Before the night was over we were going to meet a Japanese fleet of two battleships, 8 to 10 cruisers, many destroyers, and a score of transports taking reënforcements to Guadalcanal.

Critical Night for U. S.

It was a critical night in American history. On Guadalcanal our marines feared that it might be their last night alive. Many American fighting men, on land and sea, were asking the Lord for strength and courage to do their duty.

On the bridge of the South Dakota, Capt. Gatch was aware that it was both unorthodox and risky to take battleships into such narrow waters, strewn with wicked reefs.

"All we can do is trust in God and our surveys," he remarked, "and the surveys are not much good."

As we passed close by Guadal-

NEGRO FIGHTERS PROTECT ALLIED PORTS IN ITALY

Chicago Flyers Take Part in 307 Missions.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT AN ADVANCED AMERICAN AIR BASE IN ITALY, May 7.—The first all-Negro air fighter group in any war theater now has been in action here for two months and has flown 307 missions with more than 4,000 individual sorties. The group, many of whose combat and ground personnel are middlewesterners, has been attached to the coastal command, serving as harbor protectors and strafing enemy held roads north of Gaeta.

The Negro flyers have been using P-39 Airacobras. The group is commanded by Lt. Col. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., Washington, D. C., son of the only colored brigadier general in American history. More than 90 per cent of the officers are college men.

Work Is Patroling and Strafing.

"The group has not been credited with any victories over enemy planes," 1st Lt. Robert G. Pitts, Des Moines, Ia., headquarters officer, told THE TRIBUNE, "but that is because our task thus far has been patroling and strafing. We do claim two damaged Messerschmitts, tho."

Pitts related a recent incident which happened when some Negro pilots spied a B-26 Marauder crew which had been forced to bail out and was in a dinghy off Gaeta. The pilots hovered protectingly above, drawing heavy German anti-aircraft fire. But they suffered no casualties, and soon a British Walrus flying boat rescued the stranded crew.

One of the pilots in the group is 2d Lt. Lawrence Bernard Jefferson, Grand Rapids, Mich., former Northwestern university football star, and another is 2d Lt. Carroll N. Langston Jr., who practiced law in Chicago and who lives at 6319 St. Lawrence av.

Many from Chicagoland.

Other Negro pilots from Chicago are 2d Lt. Harry L. Bailey, 5427 Michigan av.; 2d Lt. Alexander M. Bright, 4332 Langley av.; 2d Lt. John Daniels, 4027 State st.; 2d Lt. Felix J. Kirkpatric, 4155 Prairie av.; 2d Lt. Cornelius G. Rogers, Howard st., and 2d Lt. Craig H. Williams, 6637 Eberhart av.

Also from the middlewest are the following pilots:

The enlisted ground personnel includes two Chicagoans, Staff Sgt. Edgar A. Clark, 120 E. 36th pl., and Corp. James F. Ferguson, 5356 Prairie av., both radio operators, and Staff Sgt. Duncan L. Galloway, Aalton, Ill., Staff Sgt. Horace Thompson Jr., Cairo, Ill., and Staff Sgt. Thomas Page, Indianapolis, Ind.

Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the allied Mediterranean air forces, recently inspected the base. He told the pilots how vital and efficient was their work and complimented ground crews on the excellence of their installations and their ability to repair damaged planes quickly.

1,000 CHICAGO SOLDIERS BACK FROM FLOODS

A thousand members of the 2d infantry regiment of the Illinois reserve militia returned to Chicago by special train last night after two weeks on flood duty along the Missisippi river in southern Illinois. The special train arrived at the Illinois Central railroad's 12th st. station at 7:40 p. m.

All of the officers and men of this regiment are residents of Chicago and its environs. The regiment was called out on April 23 by Lt. Gov. Cross, who summoned 2,300 officers and men after a request by army engineers.

The companies were transferred to "L" trains for transportation to the Madison st., and Broadway armories, where they were demobilized. The regiment was commanded by Col. Lawrence J. Davidson of Chicago.

Hint Mussolini Gives Up Socialization of Industry

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, May 7.—Benito Mussolini's program of socialization of Italian industry apparently has been given up, it was hinted in dispatches from the Italian side today. The official gazette never published the socialization decree that appeared in most Italian newspapers. This indicated that the program never passed the planning stage.

NAZIS LAUNCH SHARP ATTACK ON ANZIO LINE

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, May 7 (AP).—The battle tempo aground in Italy quickened yesterday with a sharp but futile Nazi attack against the Anzio beachhead.

German troops struck at the center of the beachhead in company strength with tanks and artillery support, headquarters said today. This force of perhaps 200 men attacked the allied line a mile and a half west of Carano, and an allied patrol fought a stiff encounter farther to the southwest.

Allied mortar fire broke up another raid of perhaps three German platoons on the main 5th army front east of the beachhead, official reports said, and at Cassino and the nearby area enemy artillery was more active than usual. An attempted Nazi raid there was frustrated by allied guns.

[Sunday's German war bulletin said that on the Anzio beachhead "several strong enemy thrusts collapsed in concentrated defense fire or in hand to hand battle."]

For a 12 mo. $200 LOAN	At Usual Small Loan Rate, You Pay	$39.52
	At Merchandise Bank You Pay Only	16.00
	YOU SAVE	$23.52

Why Pay more THAN THIS LOW COST?

Savings shown apply to "signature only" loans repaid in 12 monthly instalments, cost to be deducted in advance. You can save even more if you borrow with one co-maker. In either case, you save at least half of usual and lawful Small Loan Charges.*

IF—for borrowing $100 you've had to repay 12 payments of $10.07 each—that amounts to $120.84—which is $20.84 more than you borrowed. And $20.84, therefore, is what that loan cost you.

That same amount, $100, at Merchandise Bank would cost you only $8.00—on your signature only. It would cost you only $5.50—with one co-maker. So—here you would save at least $12.84—or as much as $15.34—depending on which plan you borrow.

Money In Your Pocket

What you save, in either case, is money in your pocket. It amounts to nearly as much as two payments on your loan. That's the difference between usual small loan charges and Merchandise Bank's extremely low rates.

If you need a loan, or want to reduce present borrowing costs, get in touch with Merchandise Bank. There's no need to take time off your job. Simply phone Whitehall 4500, or write, and everything can be quickly and confidentially arranged.

...are your clothes an Asset or a Liability?

If a candid examination in the mirror reveals them to be nondescript—if you have had difficulty in attracting the favorable attention of your superiors, or customers—your clothes may well be a serious handicap.

If, on the other hand, approving glances and respectful consideration have shown you the value of an engaging appearance—you will know your clothes are paying dividends—and may add a profit later in the shape of advancement.

Our WALTER MORTON clothes are unmistakably the kind that make a definitely favorable impression. We fit them with unusual care—to make sure of it.

CHAPLAIN TELLS OF 'MIRACLES' IN SOLOMONS FIGHT

canal the men at open stations could smell the perfume of tropical flowers. My yeoman, John P. Buck, who was a lookout, said they smelled like gardenias.

Roar of Guns Opens Battle.

Suddenly the deck trembled as if from an earthquake and we heard the deep roar of the 16 inch guns. Then the 5 inch guns began to bark. The big guns were like the deep throated bay of hounds; the 5 inchers, in contrast, were like the sharp yapping of terriers. I fingered my syrettes of morphine and wondered how soon I'd have to use them on wounded men.

There was a sailor in the sick bay with a broken leg in a cast. He smiled at me and I walked over to his bed.

"This is it, padre, isn't it?" he said. His smile disappeared and he added, "What a hell of a time to have a broken leg!"

I rested my arm on the top of his bed and put my head down on my arm and prayed. I asked for as much strength as had this boy who was able to smile while he lay helpless.

28 Fires on Battleship.

The guns kept on roaring and we could hear the explosion of shells that struck our ship. Soon we got telephone reports of the hits we had suffered and knew the stretcher bearers would soon arrive. Altho the battle was brief, it seemed to go on forever, and we were almost surprised when the guns stopped.

There were 28 fires on the South Dakota that night. When the hatches were opened, water from the hoses of the fire control parties began to flow into the wardroom, which we had prepared to receive the less seriously wounded men. In a short time the water covered our ankles.

About 3 a. m. the stretcher bearers began to bring in their burdens. The first to arrive was a Negro, a fine looking boy with an athlete's body. As I helped lift him from the stretcher to a cot I felt something warm and wet on my arm and leg. I looked down and saw it was the boy's blood.

During the long night I had to change my uniform three times.

American Boys Can Take It.

As the surgeons worked on the wounded men, many of them lying on the bare mess tables, the water around our ankles deepened in color. It had an odor that was hard to bear.

All thru that ghastly night and morning I never heard a scream of pain or panic. The only sound from any of the boys was a low moan. This was partly due to the use of morphine, but most was raw courage. Those boys could take it.

About 4 a. m., when the rush of injured coming to the sick bay slackened for a moment, I stopped beside a boy from Minnesota, one of the more seriously wounded. As I bent over his bed he looked at me and grinned.

"We won, didn't we?" he murmured.

"Yes, we did, Johnny."

My reply was not based on any knowledge of the facts. I think I would have said the same thing to that boy if the ship had been foundering.

There in the sick bay and on the tables of the wardroom, the wounded men were no longer officers and enlisted men. They were no longer efficient cogs in the ship's mechanism. They were just children again, children who had been hurt.

Soon after dawn some of us were permitted to go out on the open decks. The sky was overcast and the air damp, but it smelled fresh and sweet to us. Many who had been standing side by side all night turned to each other saying enthusiastically, like old friends, "I'm glad to see you." They meant it. The battle was over and they were alive.

But their feeling of exultation turned to anger when they saw the bodies of their shipmates, some horribly mutilated, laid in rows upon the fantail of the ship.

Errand of Mercy.

The steady procession of stretcher bearers still continued. At 8 o'clock the senior medical officer asked me to take a work party and bring down two wounded men who were still in the "housetop," above the conning tower.

Some of the stairways had been shot away, and it was almost impossible to reach them. We worked for two hours clearing away debris. When we finally got to the men, we found them still conscious but cheerful.

We put them in a big basket, one at a time, as carefully as possible, and lowered them to the decks with lines. These men were in pain. We were none too expert in the way we handled them and lack of space made us even more awkward, but neither of them did anything more than groan during the whole agonizing business.

All over the ship that night men were praying—those who had time. One of them, an electrician's mate from Iowa, told me later that he was trying to remember the Lord's Prayer when the firing began.

Prayer in Midst of Battle.

"There were 15 men in our compartment amidships," he said. "We were surrounded by powder magazines. The word came over the telephone that doctors were needed in the super-structure and that various places had been hit. It was tough. We all wanted to get up and do something. I kept thinking of the kids back home.

"I prayed for the ship and my shipmates and asked forgiveness of my sins. It seems funny to say so, but I asked forgiveness of our enemies. I prayed and hoped that every salvo that went off would kill a lot of Japs.

"One shell tore out the main feeder cables and started fires all over the ship. An explosion blew out the steel door covering electrical apparatus in our compartment.

Miracle of Sea Battle.

"That door was half an inch thick. There were men lying on the floor and sitting all over the room. The door flew across, hit a bulkhead and then fell, missing every one of us. We put out the fire in the wiring and made repairs. Then we sat down and looked at the door. Somebody said, 'God sure was looking out for us.' Several men said 'Amen.' I still don't see how that door missed us."

Up in turret 3, there was a boatswain's mate from California helping to load the left gun.

"We understood a lot of things better after that night," he told me later. "Our turret took a hit, and we could hear the officers talking over the phone system, asking how bad we were hit and whether the guns would fire. Our turret commander was certainly a cool headed duck. He said, 'Never mind how bad we're hit. I don't give a damn if the guns blow up. I'm going to fire.'

Guns Set Planes Afire.

"After that we waited for the firing signals and they came—buzz, buzz, then a long buzz, but the guns wouldn't fire. I was kind of relieved when they didn't blow up."

The first round fired from the 16 inch guns set fire to the ship's airplanes on the catapults.

"We started to put out the fire," said a chief petty officer in charge of a repair party. "But before we could get near it the guns fired again and I'll be damned if the second concussion didn't blow out the fire. Under those guns the blast was terrific. It knocked two of my men down and blew their helmets off. One fellow forgot to close his eyes and was blinded for a while by the flash.

"At such times everything you do is a prayer; even your cuss words are prayers. And there wasn't a man of us who didn't feel that The Old Boy himself had his hand on our shoulder."

Of all the men in the navy, the chiefs are least famous for their piety. When one of them refers to God as "The Old Boy," he is speaking with sincere reverence.

On that night we lost 40 men killed and 180 wounded. Later we learned that the carnage on the Japanese ships must have been much more frightful than ours. They lost two old style battleships, five cruisers, and at least two destroyers, probably more. Our loss in ships was two destroyers, most of whose men were saved.

Of course, we didn't know all that on the South Dakota on the morning after battle. Our ship had been badly damaged.

Armchair strategists have been quoted as saying we should have pursued the beaten enemy. I am not qualified to discuss naval strategy, but I do know human beings, and I know our crew had been at battle stations almost constantly for more than 24 hours. The men were exhausted.

Also our crippled ship was in grave danger from enemy bombers and submarines. As we drove toward safer waters we prayed for a storm to hide us.

In many sermons on the ship I had preached that we must reconcile ourselves to God's will; that sometimes God says "No" to our prayers. I never told the men to pray for miraculous escapes. But on that fateful morning after the battle I was sure it was God's will that the South Dakota be saved.

Altar Beneath South Dakota Guns

U. S. OFFICIAL TO TRY PERSUASION ON THE SWEDES

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 7 (AP).—Stanton Griffis, representative of the United States foreign economic administration, is expected shortly in Sweden to implement allied pressure to halt the ball bearing trade with Germany by talks with leading Swedish exporters, it was learned today.

He probably would be accompanied by British experts in a delegation expected to deal directly with manufacturers in view of Sweden's rejection of an American request that the ball bearing traffic be stopped.

The allies intend to press the question on a business basis, pointing to obvious advantages to the manufacturers to play ball with the allies now to enhance their post-war trade with the western powers. The American representative has a wide acquaintance among Swedish business men.

BRITISH ABANDON BUTHEDAUNG, BIG BASE IN BURMA

Readjust Positions, Says Adm. Mountbatten.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, May 7 (AP).—British and Indian troops have withdrawn from the western Burma base of Buthedaung during "a readjustment of our positions," but have beaten off new Japanese attacks on the Indian frontier base of Kohima, headquarters announced today.

"Having established ourselves on certain features vital to security on this line, we have carried out a readjustment of our positions which included withdrawal from Buthedaung without enemy interference," Adm. Mountbatten's announcement said.

The British captured Buthedaung March 12.

Headquarters said allied troops had defeated a number of determined enemy counter-attacks in the Mayu range just west of the base. Buthedaung, 65 miles northwest of the port of Akyab, is the eastern inland terminus of the main supply road across the Mayu mountains from Maungdaw.

Battle in Two Valleys.

Japanese forces attacked in the Kalapanzin valley east of the Arakan front, and were battling allied forces in the upper Kaladan valley as well as at the northern and southern ends of the long front.

The Japanese attack in the Kalapanzin valley cost the enemy severe casualties. Punjabis and West African troops killed 230 Japanese in the upper Kaladan valley during the last few days at a loss of 12 killed and 23 wounded.

Despite strong attacks in the Kohima area yesterday, allied troops continued to consolidate recently won positions north and south of that important position guarding the Bengal-Assam railway 35 miles away, the bulletin said. Allied forces also continued mopping-up operations against isolated pockets of resistance remaining between defense positions, it continued, adding there had been no important developments in the Imphal plain area.

Chinese Continue Advance.

Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's tank supported Chinese troops continued their drive down the Mogaung valley on the Japanese bases of Kamaing, Mogaung, and Myitkyina, with one of his main columns pounding to within 17 miles of Kamaing. Advance elements already hold Manpin only 10 miles above that base.

"On the east side of the valley the southward advance continues unchecked" and "west of the Mogaung river the Chinese are in contact with the Japanese south of the Hwelen river," the bulletin said.

ATTACKER SEIZES WOMAN.

Miss Frances Hall, 40, of 2734 Jackson blvd., a cashier at the Morrison hotel, told police a Negro seized her and attempted to drag her into an alley early yesterday at Van Buren st. and Washtenaw av.

NAVY BOMBERS HIT 8-SHIP JAP CONVOY IN INDIES

One Vessel Damaged Off Celebes.

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, May 8 [Monday]—(AP).—Naval Catalina flying boats on patrol over the Dutch East Indies damaged a 5,000 ton Japanese freighter in intercepting an eight ship enemy convoy off Celebes Island Friday, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

While allied heavy bombers struck numerous targets deep within the East Indies, the navy planes encountered the convoy of one destroyer and seven merchantmen at Aoangole Island, between Celebes and Boeroe Island to the southeast.

The navy airmen dropped every pound of explosive aboard their planes, and damaged the freighter with a series of near misses.

52 Tons Fall on Rabaul.

Liberators again struck the Schouten Islands north of Geelvink bay and one of the attacking planes was shot down.

Bombers also struck Timor, southeast of Celebes, with 30 tons of bombs concentrated on Koepang and Penfoei airdromes. Two parked enemy aircraft were destroyed.

In the Wewak-Hansa bay area of New Guinea planes sprayed 50 tons of bombs and streams of machine gun bullets on supply and bivouac areas.

Rabaul took a 52 ton bombing in four separate attacks by bombers from Solomons bases. One bomber was lost. Four enemy barges were sunk or damaged by PT boats off Bougainville Island.

On the northern New Guinea ground front American patrols have reached a point 20 miles east of captured Hollandia, a spokesman said.

Pound Kuriles Again.

Washington, D. C., May 7 (AP).—American airmen again visited Japan's Kurile islands Friday, unloading explosives on Paramushiro and Shimushu, flying thru intense fire from anti-aircraft guns, the navy reported today.

Ponape island again was bombed and 62 tons of bombs were unloaded on positions still retained by the Japanese in the Marshall group.

MOVE TO RALLY GANDHI'S INDIA TO ALLIES SEEN

NEW DELHI, India, May 7 (AP).—A meeting between Mohandas K. Gandhi and the viceroy of India at the earliest possible moment, with the objective of marshaling India's potentially vast military strength against Japan, was envisioned today by Indian political leaders and those closest to the Indian Nationalist leader.

Viceroy Wavell.

The conference would be contingent upon Gandhi's recovery from his illness. His son, Devadas, said his latest information from Poona indicated his father's condition was "much less alarming" than it appeared a few days ago.

Intimates of Gandhi said it is a foregone conclusion he will meet with Field Marshal Wavell, viceroy of India, in an attempt to reconcile the differences between Britain and India and thereby swing a united India into the war.

CHINESE CHECK JAP DRIVE ALONG 'INVASION ROUTE'

Hold Near Loyang, Hub of Honan Railway.

CHUNGKING, China, May 7 (AP).—The Chinese high command announced today that its troops defending Loyang in northwestern Honan province had repulsed a reënforced Japanese attack nine and one-half miles south of the city as Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault's 14th air force fighters and bombers were thrown against the enemy.

The Chinese situation was termed serious, for the fall of Loyang, 500 miles northeast of Chungking, would open an historic invasion route to the Chinese interior, and it was believed the Japanese might have embarked on an all out attempt to knock China out of the war.

As Chinese refugees fled westward out of menaced Loyang, Chinese-American P-40s strafed Japanese troop columns outside Loyang, destroying between 40 and 50 trucks, armored cars and tanks, and killing and wounding between 300 and 400 Japanese, Gen. Chennault's headquarters announced. Two Japanese bombers also were shot down.

Admit Two Towns Fall.

The Chinese command acknowledged the fall of Yengcheng, 83 miles south of Japanese held Chenghsien, to enemy columns moving southward yesterday along the Peiping-Hankow railway, and implied that another Japanese column had entered Yehsien, 35 miles west of Yengcheng. Chenghsien, the focal base of the radiating Japanese drives, is 65 miles east of Loyang.

[A Tokyo dispatch broadcast by Berlin said 70,000 Chinese, representing the effectives of 10 divisions, were "almost completely encircled" in the mountains southwest of Chenghsien. As the result of a battering by the Japanese, they were declared able to offer "only slight resistance."]

Another enemy column moving northward along the railway was said to have been checked in the Kioshan sector, 51 miles south of Yengcheng. This left the Chinese in possession of only a 40 to 50 mile section of the north-south railway.

The Chinese said their troops also were fighting in the Wuchang sector, 25 miles west of Yengcheng, and still held Wuchang. In this general area west of the railway the enemy apparently was seeking the main strength of the Chinese for a decisive battle.

Equipment Deficient.

Japan's offensive, begun April 18, caused misgivings thruout west China. Japanese advances beyond Loyang would involve government forces now garrisoning areas adjacent to Chinese communist controled territory, and the battle already has drawn attention to the deficiencies of Chinese equipment.

A Chinese dispatch said most of Loyang's Chinese-American airmen were active all the way from Burma and Indo-China to the Yellow river. Among their targets was a Yellow river bridge northwest of Chenghsien. Eleven direct hits were scored on it, the bulletin said.

In the Indo-China sector Liberator bombers attacked Saigon and Haiphong, and Mitchells strafed 12 large sampans off Hongkong, causing many casualties, it said.

Greek Air Force Units Fly with Allies in Italy

FIRST SHOTS AT HOLLANDIA FIRED BY INDIANA BOY

ABOARD A CARRIER FLAGSHIP OFF HOLLANDIA, New Guinea, April 22 [Delayed]—(AP).—Ensign Jack Conner of Macy, Ind., flew unerringly thru the darkness to touch off the swift army-navy invasion of this elaborate but weak Japanese base.

Hundreds of sorties from this huge carrier force yesterday followed Conner's night time patroling and strafing which kept enemy planes on the ground. By this afternoon the army was racing pell-mell into Hollandia.

A full day's aerial blasting preceded simultaneous landings far to the east and at Tanahmerah and Humboldt bays, flanking Hollandia.

Thus in one bite Gen. MacArthur's forces cut off another big chunk of New Guinea coast. The lack of opposition amazed aerial observers, who watched troops reach the beaches unmolested.

Fires First Shots.

It was Conner who fired the first shots half an hour before dawn, sending streams of 50 caliber bullets thru Japanese barracks and along idle runways on an island off the coast.

Fifteen miles away on the New Guinea shore Lt. Comdr. Evan P. Aurand, 26, of Shamokin, Pa., skipper of a fighter squadron, also circled, looking for enemies. "I saw ack-ack shooting up at Conner," Aurand related. "Finally I said by radio 'How you doing?' and he said, 'Oh, swell.'"

"It's a queer feeling, flying at night," said Conner later. "Not scary exactly, but you sure are wary. You keep waiting for those tracers to start up at you. The first thing you notice is flashes like some one blinking big orange flashlights at you."

Father Commands Here.

Aurand, whose father, Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, commands the 6th service command at Chicago, and Conner left the carrier before daylight. Another group went in a little later.

"We went out late the first day and tried five successive targets before we found one that wasn't already smoking or burning," explained Lt. [j. g.] Gerald Rian, Northfield, Minn., 23 year old fighter pilot.

"I flew over Pistol Pete himself at only 200 feet and nothing happened," added Lt. E. Scott McCuskey, Stuttgart, Ark., fighter pilot. "Pistol Pete" is an antiaircraft position long famed for its accuracy in shooting down Liberators. Its elimination has been regarded as a big problem since it commanded the invasion beaches.

Men Just Stood Around.

Lt. Lewis M. Ford, 31, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., described the landings as he saw them from a torpedo plane.

"Right on the dot at 7 a. m. we saw the ragged waves of small landing craft and rubber boats moving in from the transports in the bay. The men just stepped out of the boats and stood around on the beach helping unload.

"It looked like nobody was even shooting at them. They had the whole Humboldt bay beach consolidated within 20 minutes."

ROBBERS BEAT VICTIM.

William Hodes, 4501 Washington blvd., told police yesterday that three men, one carrying a revolver, beat him, then robbed him of $8 and two watches in the rear of 4735 Madison st.

NAZIS TO STAY ON DEFENSIVE IN RUSSIA: LANZA

Keep Sufficient Reserves for Local Drives.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized as an authority on military matters.]

Without knowing how many reserves the Russians have it is impossible to foresee what their probable action will be this summer. All indications point, however, to the axis remaining on the strategical defensive in Russia. There will be no major German attacks until the threatened invasion of western Europe has been disposed of.

Sufficient reserves will be maintained in hand, however, to enable local offensives of a serious nature to be undertaken when circumstances are favorable.

Mass Troops in Poland.

London reports say the Germans have assembled about 30 divisions in south Poland, west of the Bug river. This is an excellent place for them. If the Russians attack thru Kowel toward Brest Litovsk, the reserves can attack their left. If the Russians come head-on, south of the Pinsk marshes thru south Poland in the direction of Silesia, the reserves are in position to bar the way. If the Russians attack the Carpathians, the reserves can readily attack their right.

Lines of communication from south Poland are good. If necessary the reserve, or part of it, can be forwarded to the German armies north of the Pinsk marshes, or sent south in the rear of the Carpathians, either to strengthen that front, or continue on into Romania.

This German reserve, if not needed in Russia, has good rail facilities for moving west to aid in opposing an invasion.

A Choice for Russia.

Russia has a choice of lines of operations. She could go southward into Romania. This would not be on the road to Berlin, and would be open to a German counter-offensive eastward, south of the Pinsk marshes. This movement would be safe only if Russia were certain Germany did not have the forces for an offensive. Temporarily, this is probably true.

A Russian advance into and thru South Poland is believed by many military critics to be Russia's best move. This depends upon how many divisions Russia has yet available.

There is nothing to prevent a Russian offensive north of the Pinsk marshes, except the direct resistance of the German defenses. As it advanced it would clear the last remaining German held Russian territory. If it went 250 miles, it would arrive in line with the Russian armies south of the marshes.

There is a possibility of a Russian offensive in the far north. This would lead from the Murmansk area into Norway. Regardless of how this turned out, it would be only a side show to the main event, which must be somewhere south of the Gulf of Finland.

The axis line in Russia is substantially as long as it was a year ago. There has been no shortening of the front. Just as many divisions are required to defend the present front as were needed before.

Germany has strengthened herself in other ways. By the abandonment of 75 per cent of Russian occupied territory, the occupation forces have been correspondingly reduced.

10 YANK FLYERS LEAVE ISTANBUL, TO BE INTERNED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, May 6 [Delayed].—Ten American boys left here tonight for Ankara to be interned. They had brought their Flying Fortresses to an emergency landing near here last night. The bomber was damaged in a raid on the Balkans, but none of the crew was injured.

The first Turkish press report was that gunners had opened fire on an unidentified bomber and forced it down, but the aviators said it was in error. They came in low, nobody fired on them, and the Turks took the best care of them after landing. Following orders, they refused to say where they were based or what yesterday's target was.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. I. M. Faulds, 8108 Wood st.]

THE QUESTION.

WHERE ASKED.

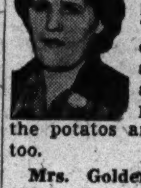
The Buda company, Harvey, Ill.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. Paul Darcy, secretary, 9933 Wentworth av. — If I weren't the "handyman" around our house it's a cinch nothing would get done. It's more work to try to get my husband to fix something than do it myself. The other day the vacuum cleaner went on the blink and I asked him to fix it. He kept on reading his newspaper.

Mrs. Tommie J. Burgess, secretary, 12238 Maple st., Blue Island—Before my husband went into the service I was helpless with a screw driver or hammer. I've learned a lot about the repair business since he's been gone, and when he returns I bet he'll be proud of me. I'm letting myself in for a lot of extra work tho.

Mrs. Andrew Poulos, secretary, 69 W. 21st st., Chicago Heights—My husband is a cook, and before he went into the army he used to do the cooking and I did his job around the house. I fix my own iron when it needs a new plug, paint the house and do decorating. When down south with him I even made a woodbox.



Liliam Czyzewicz, parcel post, 15712 Halsted st., Harvey—I am definitely the handyman in my home. I've become expert at wall papering and painting. This year I dug my own war garden and also did the planning and planting. I suppose I'll have to dig the potatos and spray potato bugs too.

Mrs. Golden Hall, filing gears, 15335 Turlington av., Harvey—I'm the handyman around our house. I'm mother, father, and general repair service. I have three sons. They are all good at repairing when something goes wrong, but it seems by the time they manage to get around to it, I've already finished the job.

Mrs. Henry Wurmnest, stock selector, 236 E. 152d st., Harvey—I'm the front line of defense on the home front. When it comes to putting up stove pipes, greasing the washing machine, fixing the stove lighter, laying linoleum, or any carpentry job around the house, it's my duty to see they're all taken care of.

Petain Quits Vichy to Live Near Paris, Say Nazis

New York, May 7 (AP).—The OWI reported the Nazi controled Vichy radio said today that Chief of State Marshal Petain left Vichy this morning for "a locality near Paris, where he will stay temporarily." Later, said the OWI, the Nazi Transocean agency explained that the move did not mean a change in the affairs of state.

RUSSIAN PLANES RAIN EXPLOSIVES ON SEVASTOPOL

LONDON, May 7 (AP).—Russian planes, in a possible prelude to a final Red army land drive against Sevastopol, destroyed 22 German planes, blew up four ammunition dumps, damaged several ships, silenced artillery batteries and inflicted heavy losses on German and Romanian troops in attacks yesterday and last night at the besieged Crimean port, Moscow announced tonight.

Germany's high command hinted that Red army troops already had cracked axis lines when it told of frustrating strong soviet attacks "in a fluctuating battle" around the fortress which has been under soviet artillery fire since mid-April.

25,000 Men in Garrison.

The Germans said that 34 soviet planes were shot down during the battles over the ruined city, and acknowledged further soviet attacks on ships, 19 of which Moscow said were sunk last Wednesday and Thursday.

Axis broadcasts said the Russians had hurled "extraordinarily powerful" forces of infantry supported by planes, artillery, and tanks against the German-Romanian garrison, estimated at 25,000 men.

The Germans and Romanians are isolated except for tenuous ship and plane contacts with Romania. troops.

Front 25 Miles Long.

But continued axis resistance at Sevastopol would not necessarily tie down a considerable Red army force. The Germans and Romanians at Sevastopol are pinned into an area with a circular front of only about 25 miles.

The soviet midnight bulletin said Russian troops wrecked 11 German tanks today in repulsing attempts to capture an important height west of Isai, and killed 200 Germans and taken prisoners in wiping out a temporary Nazi wedge into forward Red army lines south of Tiraspol, on the west bank of the curving lower Dnestr river.

U. S. PRIEST FLYING HOME AFTER TWO VISITS WITH STALIN

MOSCOW, May 7 (AP).—The Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski, Polish-American priest from Springfield, Mass., is en route to the United States by plane after his 12-day stay in Russia. The soviet press featured Orlemanski's statement yesterday that Premier Stalin "is very kindly disposed towards the Catholic church." The priest had two audiences with Stalin.

In his formal statement Father Orlemanski, whose trip aroused criticism in the United States, said "future events will prove Stalin's friendliness towards the Catholic church," and added that the Russian leader had no intention of meddling in the internal affairs of Poland.

Mummy must've forgot to OIL IT

American mechanical genius shows itself at an early age. Youngsters are hardly out of their diapers before they know that today's world moves on a film of oil.

A few years more, and they have learned that the life of any mechanical device depends, in large part, on the quality of the lubricant. But even grown-up car owners are sometimes late in finding out a simple clue to choosing a quality motor oil.

It is contained in this plain, straightforward statement: If you want our best oil, remember we specify that Phillips 66 Motor Oil is our finest quality . . . the highest grade and greatest value . . . among all the oils we offer to average motorists.

Regular oil change has never before been so important, now that you must "Care For Your Car For Your Country." Authorities state that, with today's reduced driving, every two months is the safest change period. So get rid of winter-worn, contaminated lubricant . . . and get quality, by asking for Phillips 66 Motor Oil.

NAZIS MURDER 102,000 IN OLD POLAND: RUSSIA

Bodies Reported Found on Rowne Dump.

LONDON, May 7 (AP).—More than 102,000 civilians and prisoners of war were murdered by the Germans in the Rowne [Rovno] region of pre-war Poland, a soviet extraordinary commission for investigation of German atrocities charged today. The report named the alleged perpetrators of the crimes.

[Similar charges of atrocities allegedly perpetrated in Poland have been made from time to time by both Russia and Germany. Each nation accused the other of the mysterious slaying of 11,000 Polish war prisoners in Katyn forest early in the war.]

The commission said in a 5,000 word statement that many persons were forced to dig their own graves and that some of the bodies showed evidences of having been tortured.

The statement, broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded here by the soviet monitor, said some 49,000 bodies were found in "the timber dump in Byeli street in Rowne, and 32,500 were in the allotments [vegetable gardens]. Five hundred were on the territory of Rowne prison."

Forced to Lie Nude in Graves.

The commission quoted one witness as saying:

"I frequently saw how Ukrainians, Russians, Poles, and Jews—soviet citizens—were killed. They usually were brought to the place of execution, forced to dig their graves and then forced to undress and lie face downward in the graves. They were shot in the back of the head with tommy guns. Then another layer of people was disposed of. Others were killed with exhaust gas in sealed trucks."

The report added:

"The fact that these crimes were carried out in the place of residence of the former reich commissar of the Ukraine, Erich Koch, provides yet another proof that all these crimes were carried out according to a plan for the extermination and for the devastation of soviet territory, elaborated and put into execution by the Hitlerite governments."

Three Years Covered.

The commission reported that "it is clear the mass murders in the Byeli street timber dump were carried out at the end of 1941. The mass murders in the allotments were in 1942 and 1943. The murders in the gas vans, used to kill condemned persons in the prison yard—were toward the end of 1943.

"Many groups of bodies have been burned by the Germans, since the bodies bear proof of torture inflicted before death."

Named in the report as responsible for the crimes were:

"The government of Hitlerite Germany.

"Reichsminister Rosenberg.

"Reich Commissar Koch.

"The general commissar of Volynia and Podolsk, Schene.

"His deputy, Schweiger.

"And all persons amongst the German-Fascist invaders mentioned in this document.

120,000 OBSERVE POLES' CREATION OF CONSTITUTION

More than 120,000 persons of Polish descent gathered yesterday at the statue of Gen. Thaddeus Kosciusko in Humboldt park in observance of the 153d anniversary of the Polish constitution and the 150th anniversary of the uprising which Gen. Kosciusko led to support the constitution.

Members of the Polish National alliance, the Polish Alma Mater, the Falcons, the Polish Women's Catholic union, the United Polish Women of America, the Polish Women's alliance, the Polish Veterans, and other organizations participated in a parade and later in the anniversary program.

Wear Costumes of Poland.

The majority of those in the parade were garbed in the traditional costumes of Poland — the festive dirndl skirts, full blouses, and ribboned hairdresses of girls and women.

Sen. Lucas spoke at the rally.

"Here and there over this country," he said, "we hear those self appointed strategists, without military accomplishment, who would have us believe they know more than our generals. These are the critics who arouse ill will, the little egotists who are disappointed because the war is not being fought their way. We could ignore them if they discussed only military strategy. But they are frequently blinded by selfish partisanship. They cry out against rationing, taxes, priorities for war production, and against the sacrifices necessary in war time. We have no disunity in the United States but these unhappy few would breed discontent and suspicion, if they dared.

'Prattle of Discontented.'

"Even tho their voices are heard, they must go unheeded, their alarms are simply the prattle of the discontented. Nothing must stop the destruction of every obstacle on our road to victory. Every delay is costly in human lives. Every delay prolongs the war. We are in the crucial time of battle and we have faith in the competence and skill of our military leaders and those of our allies. Nothing so far has happened in this war to shake our faith in our leaders."

Other speakers included Mayor Kelly, Dr. Alexander Moc, Polish consul in Chicago; F. X. Swietlik, censor of the Polish National alliance and dean of law at Marquette university, and Charles Rozmarek, president of the alliance. The Rev. Casimir Sztuczko, pastor of Holy Trinity church, delivered the invocation.

The Polish constitution, adopted in May, 1791, by the Polish diet in Warsaw, was one of the most democratic government charters in Europe in the 18th century. Its provisions included freedom of speech and assembly and equal rights for peasants and nobility before the courts.

Tito's Forces Derail Five Trains; Take Two Bases

LONDON, May 7 (AP).—Yugoslav forces attacking German communications have derailed five trains on the Ljubljana-Trieste and Ljubljana-Grosuplje lines, in northern Yugoslavia, and have seized two enemy bases in that area, a bulletin from Marshal Josip Broz [Tito] said today. The bulletin said the Partisans were continuing offensive operations in the Montenegro and Hercegovina section to the south.

KEEP ATLANTIC CHARTER OPEN, RUSSIANS URGE

'Unconditional Surrender Needs Further Study.'

MOSCOW, May 7 (AP).—The War and the Working Class, influential soviet trade union journal, today urged that the Atlantic charter be left open to discussion to keep up with the constantly changing situation.

An article by Prof. Bosir Stein, former chief of the press department of the foreign commissariat said the charter, as announced in 1941, "formulated correctly" the general principles of peace but that new problems had arisen.

The demand for unconditional surrender of the enemy was cited in the article as "requiring further study for the establishment of concrete conditions to define the necessity of either complete adherence to this principle or some letup from it in connection with some countries."

Criticize British M. P.'s.

The article opposed any discussion of the Atlantic charter that would be helpful to the enemy and criticized British members of parliament who insisted that the charter's provision against territorial changes meant Germany could not be dismembered.

It said parliament members also are "trying to revive the long solved historical problems such as the questions of territories in the western Ukraine and White Russia and the fate of the Baltic soviet republics."

"One should protest energetically against any attempts to begin discussions which would aid Hitlerite Germany or the reactionary Polish emigre government in London," the article continued. "But one cannot deny discussions which have for their goal the improvement, definition, making specific, and finally developing principles which are the bases of the Atlantic charter."

Seeks Aid of Satellites.

The article said discussions should be directed toward hastening the war's end, and suggested, as one possibility, "measures to unite anti-fascist democratic forces of the satellite countries of Hitlerite Europe and the severance of these countries from Germany."

The journal also published a letter from Euveginy Korovin, member of the Academy of Sciences, urging recognition of Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz, asserting, "I assume some changes have occurred in the attitude of the allies toward the Yugoslav government at Cairo."

The publication criticized the international committee of the Red Cross for its appeal to belligerent powers urging that prisoners of war not be tried.

Claim 2,000,000 Slayings.

Estimating that the Germans had killed more than 2,000,000 civilians in the soviet union, the article, perhaps in defense of the Kharkov trial, said that a "creature on two feet who throws children into the fire is not a prisoner of war but a bandit."

"Golden pages of achievements and humanitarianism have been inserted in the 80 year history of the Red Cross," the article said, "but there is one place in the waste basket of history for the appeal of the committee which wants the slaughterers, murderers, and robbers to remain unpunished."

Friend of the Yanks

C. H. E. writes: "I am just past 17 and will complete my high school in June and would like to get into the air corps but I read sometime ago that all reserve enlistments were suspended. Isn't there going to be any way to get into cadet training?"

ANSWER: There is some indication that enlistments in the army air corps reserve will again be open, perhaps within the next few weeks, for 17 year olds only. There has been just a suggestion also that the army air forces intend to develop some sort of a college program for young men under 17 years nine months of age, to give these young men the best possible foundation for cadet training. Just sit tight and see what happens is all we can tell you now.

J. N. writes: "Some time ago you answered a question of another lady to the effect that if her husband was killed, she would keep on getting insurance benefits even tho she had a good job and making good money. My husband died after five months in service and I've been getting insurance benefits and I am told I am also eligible for the widow's pension. If I take a job, will the widow's pension be paid in addition to the insurance? I have been able to save up enough money to put a down payment on a two flat home which will give me some additional income as well as provide a home for my three children for whom I've found it difficult to find a home, Chicago landlords being what they are. Would the income from the flat cut off any income from the government?"

ANSWER: We are told that as long as the man in service is killed or dies in service, his widow can make any amount of money she is able to without jeopardizing payment of insurance benefits and the widow's pension. The bugaboo in most of these situations and questions is wrapped up in the term "service connected disability." A man may, for instance, have a service connected disability, but actually die from some other cause, hence his death is not chargable to his disability. In such cases, the dependents may or may not be eligible for benefits administered by the veteran's administration. Each case has to be determined individually.

F. S. E. writes: "I am 27 years old, married, and have a child 3 years old. Under date of Nov. 20, 1943, I was classified 2-B by my Indianapolis draft board. Today I received a notice of reclassification to 1-A by the board of appeals and the notation on the card in red ink was "appealed by law." The vote was 4-0. Does this appeal board action preclude me appealing now on the grounds of hardship? This case was apparently adjudged on my occupational necessity."

ANSWER: Presumably all data of any significance in your case was in your file and considered by the board of appeals. If it was not, it should have been, and if it wasn't, it is your fault because the registrant's file is supposed to be kept up to date by the registrant. Selective service says you have no further right of appeal. However, if you have an unusual dependency hardship situation, you can present any new evidence about your situation to your local board and request the reopening of your case.

LIFE NO LONGER TO ENJOY, SAYS BERLIN LETTER

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, May 5 [Delayed]—(AP).—"Life and work are no longer things to enjoy," says a letter written to a Nazi soldier on the Italian beachhead front by a Berlin family, and made public in part today by the allied command.

"We are callous and indifferent to everything," the letter said. "The hope that there will be an end to it is all that keeps us going."

"Attacks on London are supposed to be just the prelude to the retaliation which we eagerly await before all our cities have been reduced to rubble," it added.

NAZIS PURGE 32 HUNGARIAN FOES SWEDEN IS TOLD

Movie Actress, General Among Victims.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

Stockholm, Sweden, May 7.—In one of the biggest purges by the gestapo in occupied territory, at least 32 persons were shot by Hitler guards in the cellar of the national bank at Budapest last week, according to reports reaching Stockholm today thru private channels.

The victims included Gen. Stephen Ujszaszi, chief of the so-called section of state security; Col. Kadar, head of the Hungarian army's intelligence department, and Catherine Karady, Hungary's leading motion picture star and fiancee of Ujsazaszi. With them perished at least 30 high officials formerly serving with the army's intelligence department.

The object of the purge was to silence all those having knowledge or proof of the mysterious events leading up to the alleged treason of Adm. Nicholas Horthy, Hungarian regent, six weeks ago which paved the way for Nazi occupation of Hungary.

Climaxes Struggle Over Nazis.

The murder of Ujszaszi and Kadar climaxed a behind-the-scenes struggle between pro-Nazi and anti-Nazi elements of the general staff. Ujszaszi was chief of the army's intelligence department at the outbreak of the war when, on German demand, he was replaced by the strongly pro-Nazi Col. Vasvari, then military attache at Belgrade. A few months later Minister of Interior Keresztes-Fischer, who led all anti-Nazi movements in Hungary, created a new organization called the section of state security, and appointed Ujszaszi as its chief.

Ujszaszi's duty was to keep an eye on all Nazi organizations and especially to prevent the Nazis from smuggling arms into Hungary.

Knew Nazi Underground Work.

It was at this time that Ujszaszi became acquainted with the tall, red haired, husky voiced movie actress. She was suspected of having known about the plan of a handful of intellectuals led by Playwright Ladslas Bekeffy to blow up the Nazi operated Gyoer munitions plant and for which Bekeffy subsequently was sentenced to life imprisonment. During the quiz led by Ujszaszi, the general and Miss Karady fell in love and announced their engagement. The actress became one of the general's closest collaborators. Col Kadar and Miss Karady thus were probably the best informed people in Hungary concerning Nazi underground activities.

Ujszaszi last year provided the Socialist party with the documents proving that a pro-Nazi member of the Hungarian diet, Francis Rajniss, received $17,000 from the German ministry of propaganda. Rajniss now is one of the leading members of the Hungarian Quisling government. Stockholm observers believe Rajniss was the "finger man" for the gestapo in the purge.

ASSAILS F. D. R., CHURCHILL FOR PALESTINE PLAN

Senator Avers British Try to Grab Land.

Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt were criticized by Sen. Brewster [R., Me.] last night before the Zionist Organization of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman for their support of the British white paper proposing establishment of Palestine in the future as an independent state dominated by Arabs.

Brewster accused the British of attempting to grab Palestine because of its great industrial development in recent years and abrogating the Balfour declaration of 1917 assuring Jews of a national homeland in the country.

Charges Blow to Confidence.

"President Roosevelt, thru his state and war departments, asks congress to keep silent on the white paper," Brewster said. "The deviousness of the President's policy on the white paper is destroying confidence at home and abroad."

"One can be reminded," he continued, referring to President Roosevelt and the prime minister, "of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, and hope that they both may be released from the horns of the dilemma on which they are so completely impaled."

[The white paper, issued in 1939, proposed establishment within 10 years of an independent Palestine state dominated by Arabs. Permission for 75,000 Jews to enter the country up to 1944 was proposed, and thereafter Arab permission would be necessary for Jews to enter. However, execution of the white paper was postponed March 31 because only 50,000 Jews had entered, owing to war barriers.]

Tells of Development.

Robert Szold of New York, past president of the Zionist Organization of America, told the meeting of the enormous industrial developments which have occurred in Palestine and credited it with furnishing much of the aid that stopped the Nazi armies in North Africa.

The Chicago organization elected Atty. Samuel F. Jacobson as its president, succeeding Nathan D. Kaplan.

DOUBLE TRIBUTE PAID TO HEROES OF CORREGIDOR

Bataan Relatives Join in Observance.

Special tribute was paid yesterday to American heroes who lost their lives in defense of Corregidor and to the soldiers who are still alive and in the hands of the Japs. Two separate services were held in commemoration of the second anniversary of the fall of the Phillippine rock fortress. One was held in Chicago temple, 33 N. Clark st., the second at Hotel Hamilton. Both were attended by relatives and friends of men who were serving in the Philippines when the islands fell to the Japanese.

"American people cannot ask for a finer example of steadfast courage than was shown by American and Filipino men and women who fought until their endurance was stretched beyond human limits," said the Rev. Charles R. Goff, pastor of First Methodist church, at the temple.

Bataan Families Attend.

The service was attended by members of the Bataan Relief Organization of Illinois, composed of more than 500 relatives and friends of men who were serving in the Philippines. The organization is working for the relief and early return of prisoners.

William Sammon of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, department of Illinois, presented an American flag to the organization in recognition of the American soldiers now prisoners of Japan. Members of Harmony post, No. 2353, made up the color guard at the presentation.

Unforgettable Fortitude Shown.

"The defending forces at Corregidor gave the world a shining example of patriotic fortitude and self-sacrifice that will never be forgotten," said Sammon. "Short of food and ammunition, and exhausted from fighting overwhelming odds, our soldiers were gallant and brave to the last."

Anton Wirtz, 1658 Mohawk st., told the group he had been advised by the provost marshal's office that his son Carl Wirtz, a prisoner, had received personal packages and letters sent from Chicago in September. This corroborated unofficial reports received from broadcasts.

SOLDIER IS SHOT BY EMPLOYE IN THEATER LOBBY

Pvt. John Fuller, 22, of Jackson, Tenn., was shot twice, once in each leg, yesterday by Raymond Watkins, 24, of 2237 Madison st., a Negro watchman at the Four Star theater, 2418 Madison st., during a quarrel in the theater lobby.

Warren av. police learned that Fuller and Betty Swader, 17, of 1658 Maypole st., had been drinking in a tavern across the street from the theater. Betty quarreled with Mildred Nosse, 30, of 1514 W. Jackson blvd. in the tavern, and chased her across the street into the theater lobby.

Watkins, police said, pushed Miss Nosse into the woman's washroom and tried to induce Miss Swader to leave.

Fuller, police said they learned, became incensed at this and struck the theater manager, knocking him down. Then, police said, he started for Watkins, who drew a revolver and fired twice.

TO ALL MONTGOMERY WARD PEOPLE

On Tuesday, May 9, the National Labor Relations Board will conduct an election among Wards Chicago employees to determine whether the employees desire to be represented by Local 20 of the United Mail Order, Wholesale, and Retail Employees Union, C. I. O.

Wards principles with respect to union membership remain unchanged. Wards fully recognizes the right of each employee to join or not to join the union as he wishes. Each employee is assured that his opportunity with the company will be the same whether he is a union member or not.

The Company Urges Each One of You to Vote in Order That the Result Will Truly Represent the Will of the Majority.

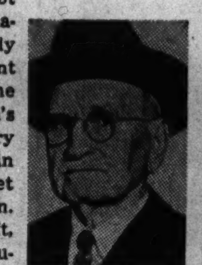
ONLY 1 VETERAN OF HAYMARKET RIOT AT MEETING

Capt. Frank P. Tyrrell, 86, one of the two remaining members of the Haymarket Riot Veterans association, was the only member present yesterday at the organization's 58th anniversary observance in Desplaines street police station. George Roycraft, 97, of 3394 Schubert av., was unable to attend.



Capt. F. P. Tyrrell.

Tyrrell recalled the night of May 4, 1886, when he marched with 175 other policemen from the station into Haymarket square, where hundreds had met to protest the killing of a man in labor troubles. The crowd fought the police with revolvers and the policemen charged with guns and night sticks. Some one threw a bomb and eight policemen were killed.

Yesterday, Tyrrell, who lives at 643 Clarence av., Oak Park, was greeted by station officers with a breezy "Hiya, kid?"

U. S. SEETHING IN PROTEST AT WARD SEIZURE

Becomes Political Issue of Great Magnitude.

tion. The move failed completely, the directors solidly supporting Avery.

The letters legislators are receiving from constituents emphasize fears of dictatorship, dwelling on Attorney General Biddle's assertion that the President under his inherent powers as commander in chief is at liberty to seize any man's business or other property or take any other step he deems necessary to effective prosecution of the war. Most of the letters, according to senators and representatives, also cite the contrast of the President's seizure of Ward's with Mr. Roosevelt's attitude in the case of John L. Lewis' refusal to comply with a war labor board order. Instead of cracking down on Lewis Mr. Roosevelt testily demanded at a press conference whether he was supposed to write Lewis a pink note begging him to comply.

Only One Instance.

In the Republican indictment of the Roosevelt regime the seizure of Ward's is not an isolated instance of temporary resort to war emergency powers but merely the latest in a long list of acts in defiance of the Constitution that have marked the decade of the New Deal in peace as well as in war.

The outstanding example before the war of the new governmental structure the President is endeavoring to erect was his undertaking in 1937 to pack the Supreme court, thereby making it permanently subservient to the executive. He was signally defeated in that effort, being deserted by the majority of his own party in congress.

No sooner was he curbed in that attempt, however, than Mr. Roosevelt put forward far reaching measures proposing to enlarge the executive branch of the government and transfer to it vast powers residing solely in the legislative branch. The tremendous centralization of government, approaching dictatorship, involved in this project caused even some of the habitual New Deal apologists to condemn it as smacking of a combination of Mussolini's fascist state, Hitler's Nazi regime and Stalin's communism. Congress turned thumbs down on this scheme.

Cite F. D. R. Letter.

According to the Republicans, Mr. Roosevelt, if returned to power for a fourth time, will continue to flout the Constitution just as he did before the war and is still doing during the war. They cite Mr. Roosevelt's letter to a congress committee hoping it would "not permit doubts as to its constitutionality, however, reasonable, to block the suggested legislation."

They cite the 4,000 executive orders issued by the President and the myriad of regulations thereunder which have made laws exceeding the limits of the Constitution and congressional enactment.

Altho congress inserted in the 1941 war powers act a prohibition of the creation of new functions and agencies Mr. Roosevelt set up more than a dozen new executive agencies by executive order. Congress wrote into the price stabilization act a formula for fixing the prices of farm products. The President issued an executive order under which a different formula was adopted. Congress rejected the President's proposal to limit incomes to $25,000, advocated by the Communists and Mrs. Roosevelt, but under an executive order the limitation was proclaimed. It took action by congress to repeal the executive order.

In the conduct of foreign relations the President has made a multitude of international agreements not only without the sanction of the senate, but without even submitting them to congress. Under art. VII. of the lend-lease master agreement the President undertook to establish a vast international WPA at American expense. It was repudiated by senate committee.

Bricker Opens Office in Washington Thursday

Columbus, O., May 7 (AP).—Bricker-for-president headquarters will be opened in Washington Thursday, a formal anouncement said today. Roy D. Moore, Canton, O., publisher and chairman of the Bricker-for-president committee, will have charge of the office and will be assisted by Arthur Leedle, former secretary to United States Sen. WARD EMPLOYES VOTE TOMORROW ON FATE OF CIO

A formal report on an inquiry into the government's seizure of Montgomery Ward & Co.'s Chicago properties may be submitted to the senate this week, Chairman McCarran [D., Nev.] of the senate judiciary committee said yesterday in Washington as the company prepared for a busy week on the Chicago front.

Tomorrow the company's Chicago employes will vote in an election ordered by the national labor relations board to determine whether the CIO union at the plant still represents a majority of the employes.

Wednesday Judge William H. Holly in federal District court is scheduled to rule on the government's application for a temporary injunction restraining Montgomery Ward & Co. and 16 officials from interfering with government operation of the plant and ordering them to turn over the company's books and records to Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce, named as government manager of the plant.

Ruling on Writ Scheduled.

At the same time the court will rule on a motion by attorneys for the company to dissolve a temporary restraining order enjoining interference with government occupation.

Thursday, before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, Paul D. Sowell, assistant to the operating manager of the company, will appear on a charge of "taking certain property of the government with intent to commit a depredation."

The charge grew out of Sowell's action in removing a notice posted by government officials on a bulletin board at the plant. The notice concerned dismissals made subsequent to April 26, when the government seized the plant. Sowell was taken to the office of the United States district attorney, held incommunicado, finger printed, and then led in handcuffs thru a public corridor to Commissioner Walker's office, where he was released on bond.

Lawyer Expects Dismissal.

"I can't see anything other than discharge under the facts of the case," said James C. Leaton, Sowell's attorney, yesterday. "Sowell was pursuing the duties assigned him by Taylor. For that matter, his job was to take care of any releases or discharges."

Plans for tomorrow's election went forward yesterday despite Judge Holly's action in extending his temporary restraining order, originally scheduled to expire today, to Wednesday at 10 a. m.

SEIZED AS DEATH DRIVER.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 7 [Special].—Henry Van Splintern, 31, a taxi driver, was arrested today as the hit and run motorist who yesterday ran down and fatally injured Thomas Ziolkoski, 9, on a sidewalk near his home. Police said Van Splintern has admitted he fell asleep at the wheel after working 10 hours.

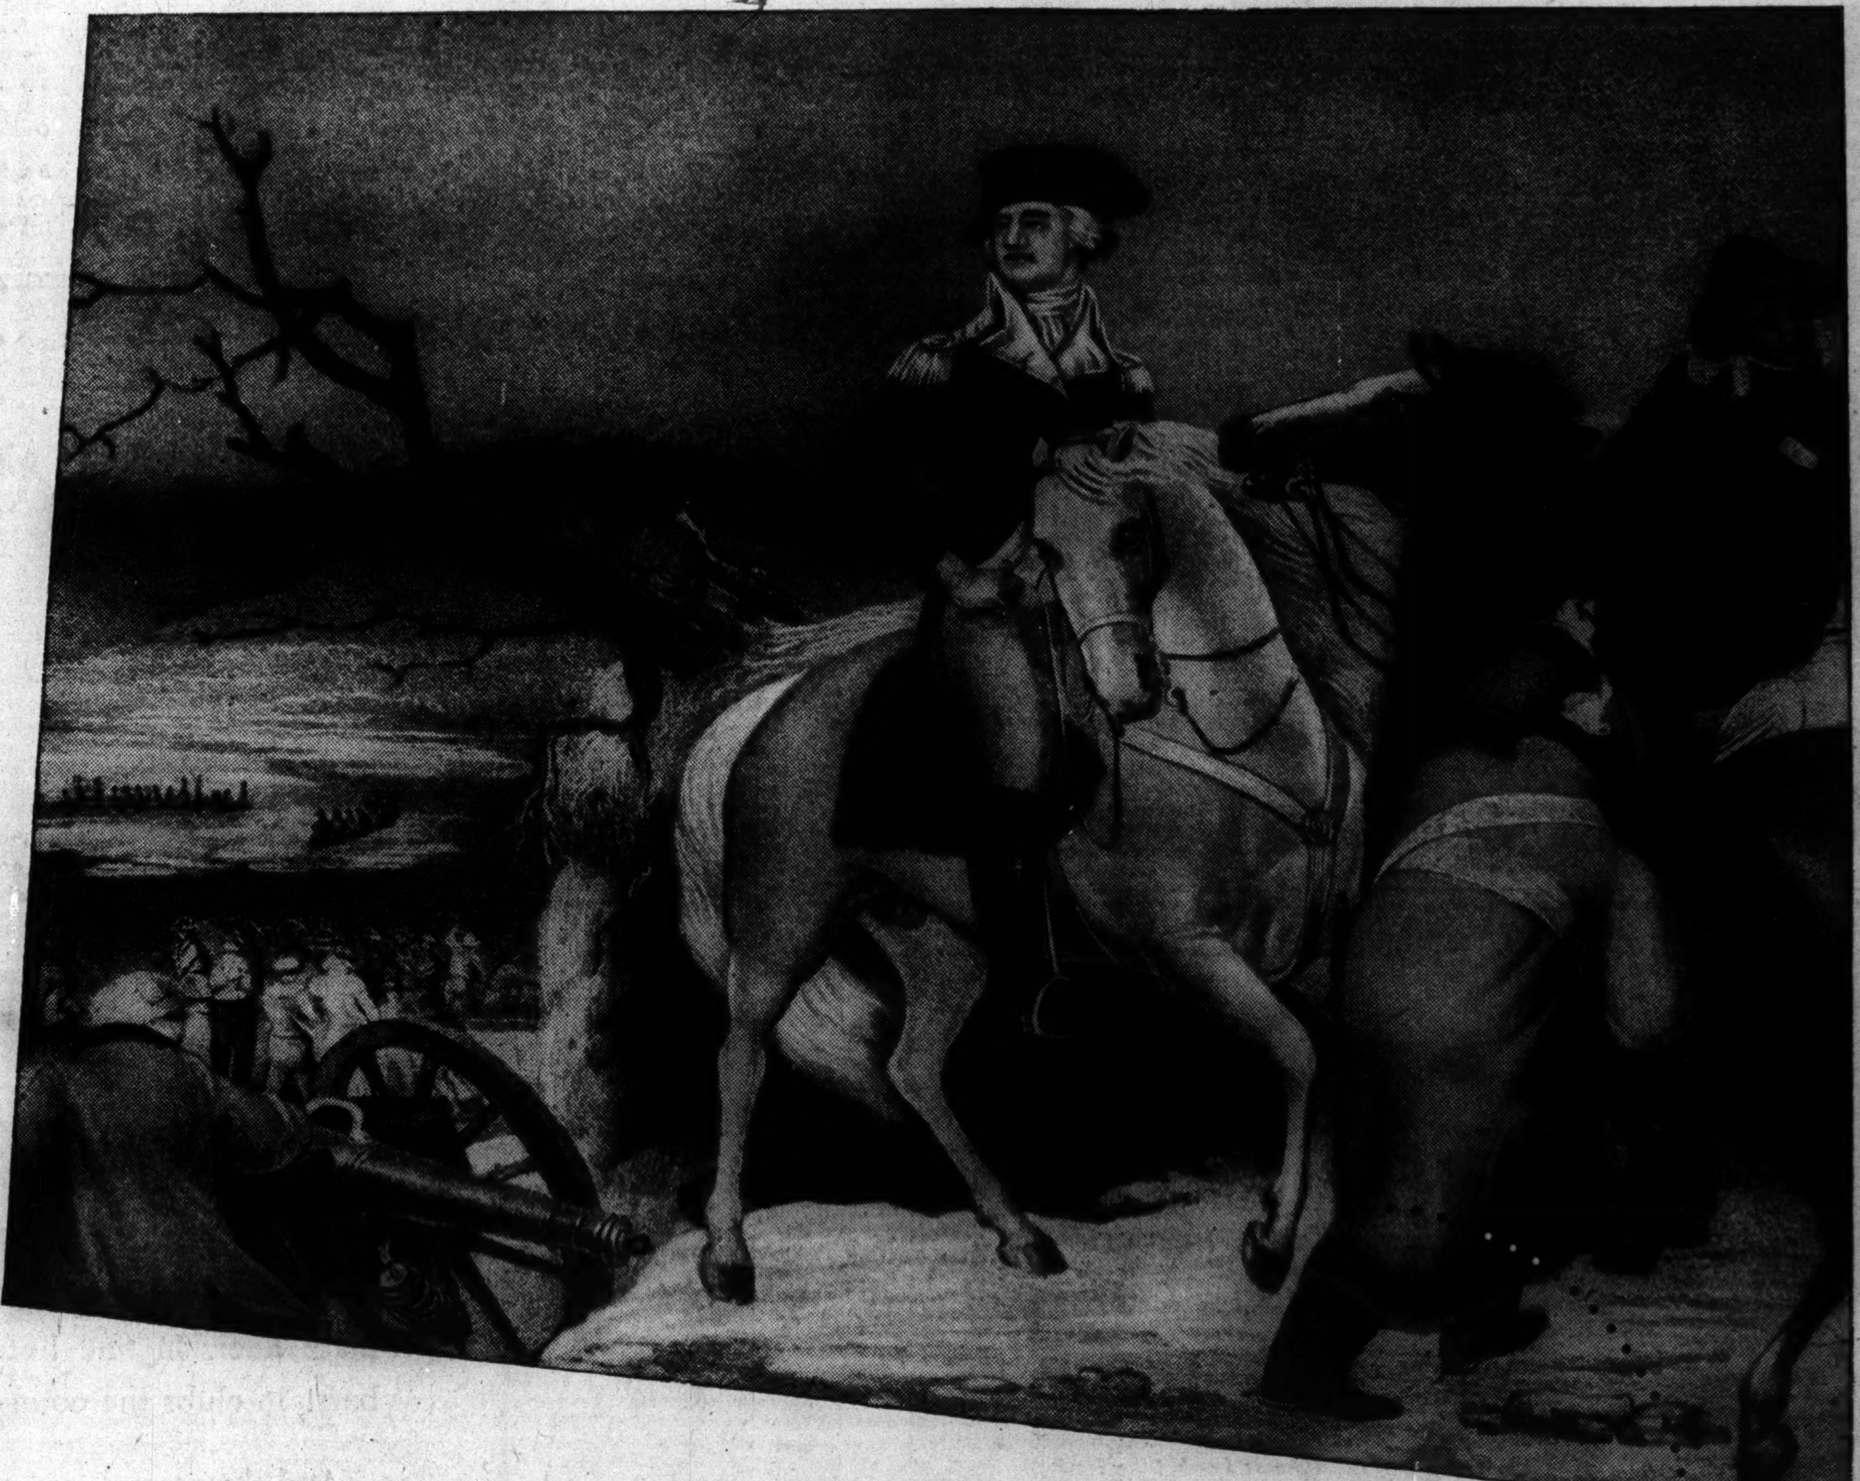
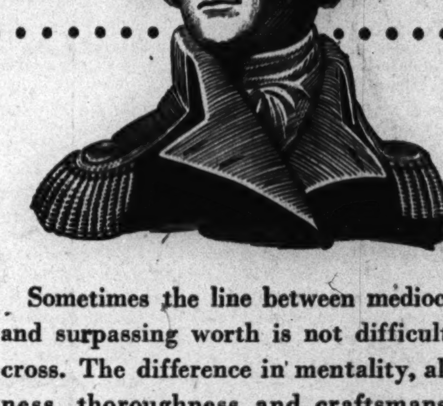
ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON CROSSING THE DELAWARE, the night before the Battle of Trenton (FROM AN OLD PRINT)



...the last TWO per cent

It was a holiday. Christmas Day, 1776. In Trenton, the enemy had called a halt to celebrate. On the other side of the Delaware stood Washington at the head of a small band of half-starved, half-frozen, hopeless men. The odds were overwhelming. But Washington didn't quit. His way was to give the last ounce of his strength. And so he crossed the Delaware...and he won. Through all history such small margins of extra determination (sometimes no more than 2%) have borne the fruit of priceless victory.



Finding the right advertising lies in finding the right men . . . men who are willing and able to give the last vital 2 per cent of their energy and thought to your advertising and merchandising problems.

From steel, stone and timber one group of men might build a beautiful and enduring structure. From the same materials another group might put together an ugly makeshift. The difference would lie in the quality of thinking that governed the work.

Sometimes the line between mediocrity and surpassing worth is not difficult to cross. The difference in mentality, alertness, thoroughness and craftsmanship might be as little as 2 per cent, but that margin is often sufficient to double the power of advertising.

That kind of advertising can be engineered with almost the precision that might be applied to the building of a flying fortress. Its components are native ability, technical training, knowledge of people and products, experience, plus the will to surpass.

* * *

Behind each advertising campaign we produce — to be read in magazines and newspapers or listened to by a radio audience or seen on billboards across the nation — there stands a merchandising and selling plan . . . geared to that advertising and its media . . . fitted to a market . . . built on facts . . . motivated by our conviction that all sales factors — advertising, merchandising, promotion, distribution . . . must move forward as a single selling force. Merchandise is never sold until it reaches a satisfied customer.

ASSAIL DRAFT OF PROTESTANT STUDENT CLERGY

Pastors Charge the Law Favors Catholics.

New York, May 7 (AP).—Heads of 23 Protestant churches have protested to selective service officials that a recent ruling cancelling draft deferment of pre-theological students for the ministry would result in an "unjust and intolerable discrimination against one religious group as compared with another."

The joint protest, announced by the Federal Council of Churches today, said the ruling would "wholly cut off the supply of future ministers for the Protestant church" but that "the supply for the Roman Catholic priesthood would not be affected."

The church leaders said Protestant churches, unlike the Catholic, rely upon the public schools and colleges for the pre-theological education of students for the ministry.

Need of Chaplains Noted.

They said that unless they continued training men for the ministry, they would be unable to meet the "double responsibility" of supplying chaplains for the army and navy and strengthening the ministry for the civilian population.

The council urged, that any program affecting students preparing for the ministry must bear equally upon Catholic and Protestant and Jew."

Denominations represented in the protest have a combined church membership of 25,000,000.

The protest was presented to selective service officials in Washington by a delegation consisting of the Rt. Rev. Angus Run, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church; Dr. Luther A. Weigle, former president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, and Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert, general secretary of the council.

Regarding their contention that the new ruling would prove discriminatory, the churchmen said:

"The announced policy of selective service would not diminish the supply of students for the ministry in those churches which rely upon parochial and church-controlled schools, but would cancel the supply of students for the ministry from the public schools and colleges of this country.

Catholic Students Exempt.

"Roman Catholic students for the priesthood may be exempt from the draft when they are in junior seminaries—that is, when they are students on the college level. As a result, Roman Catholic students for the priesthood would not be affected by the new ruling.

"Protestant students for the ministry, however—altho they are of the same age and at the same stage of educational preparation as Catholic students—would not be permitted to continue their training."

Selective service officials in Washington said the matter has been under consideration for some time. They acknowledged there had been complaints from individual churchmen and denominations. A spokesman cited the difficulty of determining just who is a bona fide ministerial student—unless he is pursuing actual theological studies in a specialized school—as the background of the present policy.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

May 7, 1944.

A PROBLEM on the grafting of fruit trees appeared recently in the Tribune feature, "Test Your Horse Sense." An illustration with the problem showed a peach tree on which a farmer had grafted the twigs of a red plum, apricot, nectarine, blue plum, and peach.

Readers now are querying this department to learn if such grafting can be done, because the answer said that the grafted sections would produce the fruits of the trees from which they were taken. The result, therefore, would be red plums, nectarines, blue plums, and apricots growing on a peach tree along with the peaches.

Such Grafting Is Done.

Such grafting can be done, because all of these fruits are members of the same general family. Nurserymen who do this sort of work refer to it as "budding" rather than grafting. A shallow, horizontal slit is made thru the bark of the parent tree, then a vertical slit is made downward from the first insertion, forming a T on the branch. A bud taken from the fruit species to be grafted is insertetd into the T slit, then the graft is bound with grafting wax or tape.

A series of such buddings could be performed on one limb of a peach tree, resulting in the five different types of fruits being produced on the same limb.

Already Commercial Feat.

This type of grafting has been done commercially to a slight extent. Several large nurseries, for example, are marketing apple trees which bear three to five different apple varieties on the same tree. Thus, a home owner who has only a small lot can buy just one apple tree and harvest, for example, Winesap, Wealthy, Delicious, and Ben Davis fruits.

The hereditary character of a branch is not changed by the transfer of that branch to a new supporting limb. A naval officer living near San Diego, Cal., has grafted roses on hawthorn trees, thus producing rose flowers in great quantity on large trees. In another grafting experiment, roses were brought to flower after being grafted to cactus plants. So it can be seen that the production of several kinds of fruits on a peach tree is only one of the less usual grafting experiments.

★ The GARDEN ★

GARDENERS who were able to plant onion seed in April should be planning to thin out the excess seedlings and transplant them to adjacent rows. Onion seed is so tiny that it is almost impossible to plant it as thinly as necessary, but no loss should result if the excess plants are reset.

Onions, unlike carrots, beets, and other root crops, can withstand transplanting with little loss of vigor. This job should be done when the plants are small, and the excess seedlings can be pulled out of the ground without disturbing the roots that remain.

If Jimmie can't have a dog he'll settle for a cat. Jimmie, who is 3, was taken to the Warren avenue police station yesterday after he had made three attempts to catch a stray dog by darting into the traffic at Jackson blvd. and Ogden av.

Police took the overall clad boy to the station, where bribes of pennies and ice cream cones failed to halt his tears. Then he spotted the station cat. He scooped it up into his arms and seated himself in a chair he had previously refused. Two hours later his father, Charles Crall, 1614 Adams st., arrived and took the youngster home.

ADMIRAL CLEARS BOTH HOUSES IN GUAM DISPUTE

King Explains Remarks on Fortification.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Adm. King.

Washington, D. C., May 7.—Demands that Adm. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet and chief of naval operations, explain the "false" and "unjustified" charges in his official report on the navy at war that congress was responsible for our failure to fortify Guam today brought an almost complete retraction of these allegations.

In a letter to acting Secretary of Navy Forrestal disclosed today, Adm. King completely absolved the senate and almost cleared the house of accusations that have been employed in primary campaigns against Senators Tydings [D., Md], Holman [R., Ore.] and Nye [R., N. D.].

Adm. King's letter to Forrestal revealed that the question of fortifying Guam had not come up in the senate at all and had been requested only orally in the house during committee hearings. No formal request for an appropriation to fortify Guam had been made to either house by the navy department or the President.

The letter in effect placed the blame for Guam going unfortified on President Roosevelt.

Recalls Hepburn Report.

It said the "essential desirability" for fortifying Guam was communicated to congress in the report of the Hepburn board of 1939 and orally by the chief of naval operations in the course of committee hearings on a house resolution to increase naval aviation facilities on Guam. It said these recommendations were never incorporated in the bill.

It was recalled that the report of the Hepburn board, based on a survey of bases in the Atlantic and Pacific was given President Roosevelt and he in turn transmitted it with certain recommendations to congress. While Adm. Arthur J. Hepburn, the commander in chief of the fleet, recommended fortifications costing 180 million dollars be built, neither the President nor the navy made a direct request to congress for such an appropriation.

Bill Omits Guam.

Adm. King skirted these facts, however, in his letter absolving congress.

In his letter to Forrestal, Adm. King wrote:

"The essential desirability of fortifying Guam was communicated to congress in the report of the Hepburn board in 1939 and orally by the chief of naval operations in the course of the committee hearings on H. R. 2880 [67th congress, first session] but these proposals were never embodied in formal draft legislation.

"Tho the question of 'fortification' entered into the debate on said bill, it was not included in the bill as voted upon. The proposals relating to Guam that received adverse votes in congress were [a] provision in H. R. 2880 [changes to H. R. 4278] introduced February, 1939, to establish, develop, or increase naval aviation facilities at Guam. [b] A provision in the 1940 appropriations bill for improvement of harbor channels at Guam."

Sen. Walsh Protests.

Sen. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the powerful naval affairs committee, was one of the first to demand that Adm. King expunge from his report the charge that "after considerable debate" congress rejected a proposal to proceed with the fortification of Guam. Sen. Walsh said the admiral's statement was "unjustified" because the facts were that congress had never been asked to fortify Guam."

Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.] joined Sen. Walsh in asking King to supply the official information upon which he based his "false" accusation against congress.

Albany Park was confronted with a mystery yesterday when Dr. B. F. Wells, an osteopath residing at 4831 N. Spaulding av., found a dynamite bomb in the alley near his garage.

The detective bureau bomb squad, headed by Sgt. Marshall Pidgeon, examined and de-activated the bomb and found that it was fashioned with a skill not encountered since the period twenty years ago when an epidemic of bombings was in progress.

Sgt. Pidgeon said the bomb was wadded with newspapers dated 1924; the contents of the three sticks of dynamite were hardened and crumbling with age; the metal caps had turned green, and the mechanic's black tape with which the sticks were bound in a workmanlike manner were frayed and rotting.

BOY KILLED BY MANURE SPREADER.

Goshen, Ind., May 7.—Caleb Winget, 7, son of Capt. and Mrs. Rader Winget, was killed yesterday when his head was crushed under the wheels of a manure spreader on his grandfather's farm south of here.

DOCTOR UPSETS POLICE THEORY IN TRUNK CASE

Doubt was cast yesterday upon the tentative identification of the trunk murder victim found Friday in Los Angeles as Mrs. Louise Villegas, Irish wife of Soylo Villegas, a Mexican being sought as the sender of the trunk.

There was a discrepancy of 43 pounds in the weights of Mrs. Villegas and of the body in the trunk. Mrs. Villegas weighed 156 pounds; the trunk victim 113.

Dr. William D. McNally, Cook county coroner's chemist and toxicologist, said that a loss in weight of 43 pounds in the length of time the body was in the trunk on its cross-country journey was impossible.

Mrs. Villegas disappeared from a room at the Racine hotel, 1163 Harrison st., about the same time that Villegas, who shared the room with her, sent the trunk on its westward way.

Lt. Philip Brietzke, head of the homicide squad, said that FBI records in Washington would be checked today for finger prints, which he said either would establish or disprove that the victim was Mrs. Villegas, a former war worker.

To the People of Chicago

Tomorrow the employees of Montgomery Ward and Company will vote to decide their preference for the United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employees' Union, Local 20, C. I. O. This election has been arranged by the National Labor Relations Board.

A national spotlight of controversy has preceded this election.

In reviewing this drama of courts and Congress, troops and marshals, the FBI and government lawyers . . . the simple story of Montgomery Ward employees seeking security through collective bargaining . . . has been lost.

THESE FACTS REMAIN TO BE CONSIDERED:

1. Four years ago Wards employees formed Local 20. Since that time our union has been under contract with the company for only one year, ending last December. That contract was signed by Wards only after the President of the United States twice had directed the company to sign.

2. Although that contract was not satisfactory to the members of Local 20, we signed it and loyally obeyed its provisions.

3. Wards has consistently refused to contract again with Local 20, insisting that we did not represent a majority of the employees. The fact is that we have been certified as the employees' bargaining agent.

4. Wards has refused to accept War Labor Board decisions covering its relations with its employees in Denver, Detroit, and Jamaica, N. Y., despite the fact that the company has never raised the question of majority representation in those cities.

5. Unions of America have conscientiously accepted the decisions of the War Labor Board. Failure to have done so would have prevented the "miracle of production" of which all America can proudly boast.

6. Local 20 has complied with and accepted every decision of the War Labor Board and of the National Labor Relations Board.

7. Wards THREE times defied the Government of the United States; on January 13th, again on April 5th, and finally on April 23rd. Only after these repeated refusals did the President act.

8. The President of the United States acted in the interests of the entire nation. His only alternative was to permit defiance by all.

WHEN EMPLOYEES OF WARDS VOTE
"YES!"
THEY WILL VOTE FOR:

THE HIGH MORTALITY OF JAP ADMIRALS.

The Japanese have reported the death in battle of Adm. Koga, supreme commander of the fleet, in March of this year. He is supposed to have been killed while directing naval operations from an airplane.

It is just a little less than a year ago—on May 21, 1943—that the Japanese radio announced the death of Adm. Koga's predecessor, Adm. Yamamoto. He, too, was said to have met his death in battle and in an airplane. This incident was officially stated to have occurred in the preceding month, April, 1943.

Until the war is over, we shall not know with any certainty when and how these men lost their lives. It is, of course, possible that the Japanese official accounts are correct, but the probability that this is so is not great. For one thing, at the times the deaths are supposed to have occurred, there were no naval operations that were likely to call for the presence of the supreme commander of the fleet at the points of conflict. Moreover, if the Japanese navy follows the plan employed by ours and the British, the top naval officer entrusts the immediate direction of the fleet to subordinates.

The probability is that both the Japanese admirals committed suicide. In each case, the death was announced a couple of months after the Japanese navy had suffered very severe losses without any accomplishment to justify them.

Yamamoto's death was announced toward the end of May, 1943. On Feb. 8, 1943, the Japanese had accepted defeat at Guadalcanal. The last of their troops had been withdrawn. The campaign had begun on Aug. 7, 1942, seven months before, when our marine landing force seized Henderson field. The Japanese at once undertook to recapture the field and from time to time very nearly succeeded in doing so. There was a long series of violent naval engagements, most of them fought at night, the purpose of which was to gain command of the sea and air and thus prevent the other side from landing supplies and reënforcements. In these engagements we suffered very heavy losses in ships and men. The Japanese showed great courage and remarkable skill, particularly in launching torpedo attacks under cover of darkness, but their losses must have been at least equal to ours and in all probability were considerably greater.

The last big engagement of the series occurred on the night of Nov. 14, 1942, in which at least one Japanese battleship and an undetermined number of cruisers and destroyers were sunk and we lost four destroyers, sunk or damaged, with damage to a battleship. After that, the Japanese made only one more offensive effort, on the night of Nov. 30, and from that time on concentrated on withdrawing their troops from the island.

The final evacuation, as was noted, occurred on Feb. 8. The Japanese say Yamamoto died in April, a month in which nothing much was happening at sea. By that time, however, it was apparent that their admiral had sacrificed dozens of fighting ships and thousands of men to no purpose. The debit account was increased on March 1 when Gen. MacArthur's air force intercepted the Japanese convoys in the Bismarck sea and destroyed 21 vessels loaded with men and supplies intended to reinforce the enemy in New Guinea. It is possible that Yamamoto was killed in battle. It is much more likely that he chose suicide to expiate the succession of defeats that began for him at Midway.

Much the same story can be told of Adm. Koga. He lost the Gilberts [Nov. 21-24, 1943] and the Marshalls in February of this year. Shortly after he took over, his forces had been obliged to evacuate the Aleutians. Around the middle of February, 1944 and continually since then, his powerful base at Truk has been under attack, and he was retreating everywhere. He might have been at the front in March to receive a fatal wound but it seems unlikely. If he didn't commit hara-kiri it is quite probable that he was assassinated by disgruntled officers of his own command.

GANDHI'S RELEASE.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, the Indian Nationalist leader who has been held in prison for 21 months by the British in Poona, India, has been released. The British said that Gandhi was freed "solely on medical grounds."

Gandhi was not jailed for the commission of any crime nor was he released because he was found innocent of wrongdoing or at the completion of his sentence. He was a political prisoner. The British put Gandhi under restraint because he was a threat to the particular kind of liberty the British viceroys were imposing on his fellow citizens. They let him out because he was a sick man, likely to die in prison, and thru the martyrdom of his death to accomplish what the British intended to keep him from accomplishing while alive.

Americans are not in a particularly advantageous position to judge the merits of Gandhi's political activities or to say what kind of a man he is, because almost everything known about him in this country clears thru British censorship—a censorship in force in India long before the current war began. We do know, however, that he stood for government of India by Indians. Americans certainly won't condemn him for that.

The case of Mohandas Gandhi typifies the problems that this country is going to let itself in for if it accedes to the demands of the internationalists and enters into a political marriage with England after the war. As England's mate in a world federation, we shall have to approve and even to assist her when she jails men like Gandhi for urging a republican form of government, the same government and the same liberties that our forebears killed British redcoats to obtain for us 168 years ago.

As a sovereign nation, free from European alliances, we have the choice of taking a hand in India's fight for freedom or of leaving her strictly alone, according to our conscience and the desires of our citizens. We are not bound to help the British crush Gandhi's Nationalist party nor are we bound to help that party fight English rule. We have the freedom in world affairs to do with honor whatever we deem best and whatever our interests and our security demand.

It is time that the American people serve notice on the expatriates and the agents of European intrigue that we do not intend to liquidate this freedom for them, for England, or for any one else.

HENDERSON CHANGES HIS TUNE.

Leon Henderson, of all people, in a speech before the Executives Club of Chicago on Friday came out for the repeal of all taxes on corporation incomes. He would have all income taxes collected from individuals.

Henderson, who was one of the most influential figures thru a large part of the New Deal, is evidently a changed man. He was successively the brain truster for the team of Corcoran and Cohen; the chief of staff of the New Deal big business witch hunt called TNEC; a member of the left wing of the securities and exchange commission; the opponent of big business in several of the war production set-ups before the present one, and the first head of OPA, where he surrounded himself with economists and lawyers of radical and communistic viewpoints.

Henderson's best remembered previous speech about corporation earnings was one he delivered at a mass meeting of shipbuilding workers at Norfolk, Va., on Aug. 20, 1942. He there announced that there was a great danger of inflation because of the profits corporations were making out of the war. "Corporate profits before taxes," he told the mass meeting of war workers, "will be nearly four times what they were in 1939. It is imperative if we are to win this fight against inflation that these profits be cut . . . are we fighting for freedom and victory or for profits?"

"Profits before taxes" is a misleading expression when taxes take all but a small fraction of earnings. Henderson, however, used the weasel words in a speech to men who did not know this. He was giving a speech to improve the morale in a leading munitions center, yet he made a misleading statement which, uncorrected and without qualification, gave the impression that companies were making a killing out of the war. The fact was that corporation profits, after paying the government taxes, were smaller in the first six months of 1942, the period on which he had information, than in any similar period since the first six months of 1939, when business had not yet recovered fully from the setback of 1937 and 1938.

Henderson's figures about corporation profits before taxes were picked up by the radical newspapers, magazines, and labor leaders. The secretary of the CIO went to town with the figures, and asserted in a University of Chicago Round Table broadcast that, according to Leon Henderson, profits are up 400 per cent, farm income 75 per cent, and wages only 35 per cent. Tho the professors on the program are well informed men, they did not immediately catch him up. Henderson upon perceiving the lie which had been derived from his misleading statement should have corrected it, but instead of doing that he repeated it later.

It is good to find that Henderson has learned that corporations do pay taxes and that he wants them repealed. His proposal has merit and we hope that he sticks to it. Taxing corporations on their profits and then taxing the profits again when disbursed to the stockholders is double taxation. It is like taxing the store on its earnings and again the storekeeper when he withdraws funds for his own use. It is like taxing the farm and then taxing the farmer.

Perhaps Henderson now sees that double taxing of income of enterprises in the corporate form will interfere with business recovery. Perhaps he realizes now that it was heavy double taxes during the depression, when he was egging the Washington radicals on, that prolonged the depression. Perhaps others of the Roosevelt old guard will realize the detriment to healthy business that comes from taxing most heavily the income derived from those who venture, construct, and create. Marriner S. Eccles, who as chairman of the federal reserve board of governors is still a bigwig at Washington, has already come out for the abolition of double taxation.

Editorial of the Day

WHO SAYS THEY DON'T KNOW?

[Memphis Commercial-Appeal.]

With some reports still lacking, the 1944 American Red Cross war fund now totals 11 millions above its $200,000,000 goal, and once again the American people, too often and unjustly accused of not knowing "there's a war" on, have demonstrated that they are not only aware, but are willing to do all they can to help, toward its winning.

The American Red Cross does not get its funds from a relatively small group of large donors, but from the rank and file of Americans—the same people who have oversubscribed four successive war loan drives and who are now anticipating helping put over another.

That kind of a people cannot, will not be beaten.

FOR THE BACKROOM BOYS.

The publication of a large-scale biography of William Hazlitt ["Born Under Saturn," by Catherine Macdonald Maclean] reminds us that this English essayist and critic might be called the father of prize fight reporting. His narrative essay called "The Fight" must be regarded as the first important treatment of pugilism in the main stream of English literature.

* * *

Written as magazine journalism, this fine example of Hazlitt's vigorous descriptive style is rare stuff for sportsmen's reading. It is open-air literature at one of its gusty peaks, rich with the flavors of the stagecoach era in England, perhaps shortly after the battle of Waterloo. Hazlitt gives much more space to his observations on going to the fight, which was a rural affair, than to the match itself, but he handles the ferocious struggle between Tom Hickman [the Gasman] and Bill Neate like a master.

* * *

The late James O'Donnell Bennett of The Tribune advised ambitious young colleagues to read Hazlitt if they hoped to develop a crisp and vivid descriptive style, and he himself was often Hazlittian of manner. The passing generation of newspaper men certainly dipped into these essays occasionally, and there is one phrase in "The Fight" that has often appeared in fancy prize-ring reporting. The Gasman has swung a right and missed, and Neate, who was losing up to that point, "planted a tremendous blow on his cheekbone and eyebrow, and made a red ruin of that side of his face." Red ruin has been popular among ready writers for many years.

* * *

George Bernard Shaw has been a fancier of pugilism—a curious taste for a vegetarian and reformer—and his earliest book, a story called "Cashel Byron's Profession," dealt with the subject. He reworked the idea later into a play called "The Admirable Bashville." These Shavian trifles do not deserve comparison with A. Conan Doyle's hearty prize-fighting novel, "Rodney Stone," published in 1896.

SOME LOVELY THINGS I KNOW.

These are some lovely things I know:
Moonlight on a field of snow,
Or shadows lying dark and still
Beneath the trees upon a hill.

The peacefulness that follows pain,
A lilac blooming in the rain,
To see again green buds in trees
On hillsides pink anemones.

To lift one's eyes to white-tipped wings—
To know the loveliness of things.

The Duke and His Neighbors.

Hon. Linemaster: Lass Sunday afternoon was a swell day; it brought out a lodda buds an a mess of pesty naybors some of whom I aint seen all winter [thank the Lord]. Mrs. Glutfoos tole me she just knew winter was gone on a/c she saw 2 butterflies [she's very plebian]. I knew it was gone cause I saw 2 kitchenflies.

In our block no two guys or their bags ever agree on any subject, whether it's politics, planting radishes, or fixin bum plumbing, in fact one yap still claims now that Willkie refuses to run they oughta draft him. Incidently he's tha guy that claims if ya put a drop of cologne in your sprinkling can your onions will taste like sweet peas smell. The topic fer debate on all sides was natcherally Monkey-Wards gettin a lodda new help without even advertising. You shooda herd tha pros an cons on tha subject.

Mrs. Wizzenpuss she is waiting fer Wards Spring Clearance sale an after she gets those 2 house dresses an tha pantry curtains an her new mop an pail, she aint never gonna patronize them again. Gustof Skooglund he claims tha company is a 100% war plant. After reading some of their ads like frinstance cut prices on costume joolery an zoot suits an animal crackers, anybody with normal intelligence just hasta agree with Gustof.

Elmer Whiffletree says he bets if all tha facts were known you will find that tha Republicans are behind tha whole fracas; this bird's opinion bears great weight with me on a/c he's been our local shoe clerk for over 36 years.

Tha mama was gonna stick in her education cause she's on Wards side an I tole her she better keep her bazoo shut fer fear some of tha gang might mention our kids' report cards. As fer me, tha one big complaint I got is that they never shood of carried Mr. Avery out of tha place in tha manner in which they did, cause an aristocratic nayborhood like Larrabee and Chicago av. don't warrant such going ons. Proper pomp shood of prevailed. Duke Bakrak.

THE LAST REVIEW.

How sadly, now, the old god Neptune goes
All up and down his myriad maritime
Dominions, to review in last repose
The fleets that man has sent him with sublime
Obliviousness to cost or consequence
From all the world's sea-borne belligerents!

And at his shoulder, as he stares in awe,
Does some demure mermaid-in-waiting there
Perchance, obeying love's unwritten law,
Let fall a tear of infinite despair
To think of what the womankind of men
Would give to see those ships safe home again?

SULFA DRUGS MAY CAUSE FEVER.

The sulfonamides have been utilized long enough to permit the formation of a few definite conclusions. No one can deny that they have saved thousands of lives. In addition, countless cases of illness have been transformed into relatively mild attacks. Yes, they are entitled to the appellation, "miracle working drugs."

While words of praise permeate the writings of medical authorities, warnings and cautions abound. The remedies are not foolproof. Care must be exercised in their administration as vital organs, chiefly the kidneys, may be injured.

One of the most interesting observations has to do with the fact that fever may follow their employment. Somewhere between the seventh and tenth day, with the patient progressing toward recovery, the temperature may mount. Now and then the episode will be characterized by a skin rash and what seems to be a catarrhal affection of the eyes. These manifestations are more likely to arise if the chemical has been discontinued for a time and later reused. It is believed that trouble of this type will present itself with approximately 10 per cent of all sufferers.

What is the explanation? Apparently there is a piling up of the dye in the tissues which leads to a marked increase in metabolism. If this extra energy cannot be eliminated readily it will exhibit itself as fever. The reasons for a higher incidence after a second course is because we are adding insult to injury. Valuable as these products are, they are not wholly devoid of toxic effects.

Yes, safeguards have been adopted. If one of these agents is employed for a while and then dropped, it should not be prescribed for several months. If, within a week or two, the need still exists, a different derivative should be selected. For example, if sulfathiazole has been given, sulfadiazine or sulfapyridine may be recommended. This plan will reduce the possibility of a secondary fever and the modified compound will, as a rule, be as beneficial.

Children have a greater tendency to develop this peculiar reaction. Should it occur in adults, the mercury readings will not be as marked. It should be pointed out that if the patient suffers no ill effects after two courses, a third—with the same form of the drug—will usually be accompanied by a temperature. Regardless of the interval, the preparations should be alternated. This is why it is important to tell the doctor about every occasion when these medicines have been taken. It is well also to keep a record of the particular compound prescribed.

Does this excess heat do any harm? Probaby not, if it disappears shortly. In one report, 36 per cent of a group of hospital cases experienced the symptom. In some, crystals of sulfathiazole were found in the urine. For the most part, this was not considered serious.

Tests of the skin for sensitivity were negative. In one instance, the patient had been given a second round, in fairly large doses. He promptly suffered a chill, nausea, and vomiting. His temperature registered 103 degrees F. and considerable prostration was displayed for 24 hours altho the tablets had been stopped. A week later another variety was ordered, whereupon normal convalescence ensued. No further difficulties were encountered.

DISCOMFORT PERSISTS.

Mrs. E. K. writes: Many folks like myself, who have had the gall bladder out, find that we suffer longer spells of indigestion than before. Is this to be expected?

REPLY.

Removal of the gall bladder may upset body physiology. As a rule, the after effects are far less annoying than the original symptoms. It takes time for ducts to dilate and hence function as bile reservoirs. The diet will need to be adjusted cautiously.

THUMB TROUBLE.

F. G. H. writes: The thumb of my left hand twitches. Is this serious or just an annoyance that will pass?

REPLY.

Episodes of this character are usually temporary. They may recur, however, for short intervals. Check the state of your circulation and the condition of your arteries, particularly within the brain.

SHOULD HE?

W. W. writes: Is it safe to marry a girl who had a severe attack of psychoneurosis a few years ago? She seems normal at present.

REPLY.

Talk this over with your family doctor, who will need to know all of the facts in the case. Many episodes of this character are fleeting and have little permanent significance.

ENLARGED THYROID.

A. T. writes: I have a cystic goiter that is still movable. When it becomes stationary should it be removed?

REPLY.

Whether it is movable or not makes no difference with its behavior. The important question concerns the cells. Are they undergoing degeneration? Removal at some suitable interval is the safe procedure.

Laughter Overheard.

The analogy of men in the air forces with their heavily armored planes to knights of old in their coats of mail has been made often, but little public note has been given to another similarity—their armorial bearings or heraldry.

Heraldry started in the Middle Ages with the use of armor. When walled up in iron, the mailed knights could recognize neither friend nor foe, so shields were adorned with painted symbols and helmets with crests. From all of these came the term coat-of-arms, used to describe the armorial bearings embroidered on the surcoat worn over the coat of mail.

Its usefulness outlived, heraldry nonetheless survived war after war up to World War II, and if you wonder what it is doing in this one, just examine anything that goes up into or comes down from the skies. Not only does every air squadron have its special insignia, but every plane has its pet marking, sometimes a gargantuan picture of the pilot's best girl sometimes a voluptuous Petty girl, often a wild eyed, rollicking Disney character.

World War I. had its insignia, too, but many were macabre. It might be a witch on a broomstick, a wolf's head, a galloping skeleton, loaded black dice, a black cat against a full moon, a devil sliding down a bomb, or, most sullen of all, a winged death's head. The latter is one of the few that have carried over, just as Rickenbacker's hat-in-the-ring has, but it seems to have been modernized a trifle. The death's head is running no risks. It wears a close fitting helmet.

Most of the insignia in this war are far gayer. They rollick and romp as hilariously as the soaring spirits of the very young men who wear them on their planes. Bomby-the-Bear, a fat black cub with a white stomach, juggles and chases bombs as casually on one plane as Donald Duck mouths fierce imprecations from the side of another, but with it all just as determinedly as Flip Corkin's [Phil Cochran's] fighting cock, a shamrock tied around his scrawny neck, ruffles his feathers from Tunisia to Burma.

Many are Disney jobs, ranging from the pale blue bull with pink wings and gold earrings he designed for a marine squadron to a silly cat licking its chops as it watches a tiny mouse on a cloud, but the only two legged comic strip character to reach these heights seems to be old Jiggs, who went thru the last war with a cigar stub in his mouth, a cane under one arm, and a bomb under the other, and is back at it again this time.

All in all, they are as American as their planes and pilots. Who ever thought a Missouri mule, and a spectacled one at that, would race above the skies of Europe? Or a buffalo paw and snort above Cassino? Or "The Black Widow," a voluptuous babe at which Postmaster Walker would go tcttt, tcttt, slither over New Guinea? But there they are, as [on troop transports] are Disney's winged baby Pegasus, a winged covered wagon, a cat with a baby kitten in its mouth, and a stork with a bill full of little men and machine guns. The mere sight of them, 3,000 or more miles from home, must be warming.

And it must be quite a shock to the axis to find that no matter what those crazy Americans do, they laugh.

Homecoming.

When Capt. John Nugent of the army air forces returned home recently from overseas, his mother was at the top of the steps to greet him. They went inside the house, but he seemed bewildered. Finally he said, "Do you have a key to the house on you?" His mother said no, that it was in her bag. "Could I have it for a minute?" he asked. Once he had it in his hands, he turned it over and over slowly. Then he raced outside, closing the door behind him. His mother heard the key turn in the lock, and he burst back into the house, his face radiant. "You'll never know," he said, "how many nights I've dreamed of doing just that."

HOW TO WIN A UNION ELECTION.

Chicago, May 4.—The newspapers can get ready to print the following headlines: "Majority of Employees at Ward's Vote for Union."

The union will win out because, since the government took over, union officials of the CIO have been allowed to roam all thru the plant electioneering. We have been promised everything from soup to nuts if we will vote for the union. Many of the younger girls and boys have fallen for their line. We have been told Mr. Avery is a pro-Nazi, etc.

I have been at Ward's for 16 years and observed that many of the faces in the picket lines were strange. I doubt if they ever worked here. Many of us old timers will leave if the radical union wins.

An Old Employee.

SKEEZIX AND BILL.

Chicago, April 25.—In January, 1921, just one month before Skeezix was found on Uncle Walt's doorstep, my son Bill was born.

All thru the years, they've kept pace with each other, Skeezix and Bill, thru grammar school, high school, their first job, their first girl, their first dates, and their first love. Then Bill entered the army and Skeezix soon afterward. First one then the other, thru countless little episodes—Bill in Africa, the Tunisian campaign, then Skeezix. Skeezix got to Italy first, now Bill is there.

But when mail was slow and I didn't hear from Bill for several weeks, I'd follow Skeezix and know that soon everything would be all right because Skeezix always came thru and so would Bill. And now this morning Skeezix came home. Dare I hope that after all these months overseas, Bill, too, will follow?

My heartfelt thanks to Artist King. I imagine many other mothers take a ray of hope from his interesting, human Gasoline Alley.

THE BRIDES' PRIORITY.

Sparta, Mich., May 1.—Since it is supposed to be the shipping problem that makes it impossible for many of our boys to come home from the South Pacific for a well deserved rest, what brought these Australian and New Zealand girls over here? Or did they swim? D. T. B.

CHARGES PREJUDICE.

Chicago, May 4.—Why don't you print the truth about the Ward case? Your prejudiced view on the case, mentioned above, is so capitalistic it isn't even funny. The war labor board was created for all people and all concerns, so who is Montgomery Ward to be an exception? C. Peters.

CAMPAIGN GIFTS?

Barrington, Ill., May 4.—Well, F. D. R. now has his hat in the ring, definitely. The removal of most meats from rationing was the first gun fired.

We can expect an increase in gasoline rations about September, and other expressions of his benevolence at intervals from now on. E. Wall.

FORGOTTEN FOR TODAY.

Chicago, May 3.—Gee whiz! now we poor little 4-F's got pushed out of the headlines! Mr. Avery can't do this to us! T. J. Schumacher.

COINCIDENCE, NO DOUBT.

Chicago, May 4.—As a true citizen of the United States I think the Ward case and Mr. Avery should be told with truth in the newspapers so all shall know what Mr. Avery is and what a fine decision our great President gave on this matter. Louis Vaccaro.

Chicago, May 4.—As a true citizen of our fine country, I should think that the case of Ward and Mr. Avery should be told to the newspapers with truth. Our President gave a very fine decision on this matter. Arthur Nelson.

Chicago, May 4.—As a true citizen of our fine country, I should think the case of Ward and Mr. Avery should be told to the newspapers with the truth. Our President did a fine thing on this matter. Walter Novak.

Chicago, May 4.—As a true citizen of our fine country, I should think that the case of Ward's and Mr. Avery should be told to the newspapers with truth. Our President gave a very fine decision on this matter.

SHOES FOR ARABS.

Chicago, April 27.—I've read the story in today's Tribune about the handling of children's shoes by the office of perpetual abomination. I wonder if the crack brained nincompoop responsible for this deal would like to explain to the returning service men why his children couldn't have these badly needed, inexpensive shoes ration free while the Arabs [or whoever it was] could.

Furious.

FOR LABOR'S RIGHTS.

Chicago, May 4.—Why should we put up with men like Mr. Avery who will defy the word of President Roosevelt, not listen to his employees, or take the war labor board's decisions seriously? I seek justice for the working people and justice they rightfully deserve for it is their working efforts that mass great fortunes for employers.

Frank Senese.

SAYS WE PLANNED IT.

Chicago, May 5.—I feel that the whole Ward case represents organized planning on the part of the Republican party and The Tribune to confuse the people by raising the cry of dictatorship as it did when the President wanted to change the Supreme court.

HULL DEMANDS FREED NATIONS BE NON-FASCIST

Milwaukee, Wis., May 7 [Special]—Secretary of State Hull was quoted here tonight as having recently said a vote of defeated peoples will be the first step after victory and that if the vote is fascist "we will stay there until we get the right kind of a vote."

The secretary of state made this remark during a discussion of post-war European problems last Tuesday with Rep. Sauthoff [Prog., Wis.], Sauthoff said in a speech before the Progressive convention at the Hotel Pfister. Sauthoff, who is a candidate for the Progressive nomination for United States senator, said giving away the wealth of the United States will not save the world, "nor can we save it by destroying the standards of living of our own people."

The convention closed tonight after adopting a 21 page platform including a nationalist foreign policy plank proclaiming that "in the last analysis America's greatest contribution to world peace will be determined by what America does for Americans. "The convention did not indorse candidates for state and national offices.

SMALL TOWNERS WANT PRESIDENT WHO'S FOR U. S.

Have Same Sentiments as Midwest Cities.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit Lakes, Minn., May 7.—Among Minnesota folks in this small town, as in the Twin Cities, one hears a post-war philosophy something like this: Churchill is looking out for Britain; Stalin for Russia, both say so; and we need to be sure the next President will look out for America.

Soundings of sentiment indicate the state is as fundamentally nationalist as ever, and like other midwest states takes little stock in global blueprints of eastern internationalist one-worlders. The idea seems prevalent that the first big job is to win the war, and after it is won, coöperate with other nations to preserve peace, but retain full American sovereignty and the American form of government.

The Mackinac G. O. P. declaration many say is as far as the people care to go at present. They are set against super-government stuff.

Withstood Purge Effort.

In the election two years ago Minnesota showed how it stood by defeating efforts by eastern seaboard pre-Pearl Harbor interventionists to smear Minnesota congressmen and liquidate them. This purge movement was one of the strongest attempted in the midwest. In the election seven of the eight Republican congressmen attacked by the seaboard purge groups won hands down, most of them by increased percentages. To be sure, Sen. Ball won also. He had been supporting the New Deal on foreign policy. He polled 47 per cent of the vote cast on the office and is spoken of by some Minnesotans as a minority senator.

The Montgomery Ward affair appears to have made a powerful impression in the state. Nearly every one talked with in this trip has brought it up early in the conversation. The picture of the two soldiers carrying Sewell Avery out of his office is almost invariably mentioned, with a stock comment: "If it can happen to him, it can happen to anybody in America."

Among politicians it is regarded as a great setback for the New Deal, in rural as well as urban areas. They say here that the Avery picture has stirred far more adverse criticism than the famous nose rubbing picture.

Farm Bungling Resented.

The New Deal and its bungling on farm questions is piling up more criticism in rural Minnesota than in 1940, when President Roosevelt lost the agricultural regions and won that state by only 48,000 by virtue of the vote he polled in the twin cities and Duluth. Dairying, poultry, cattle raising, general farming interests, in meetings last year, registered criticisms that sounded almost like a revolt. Burocratic bungling, regimentation of agriculture, price ceilings in farm products, subsidies, red tape and other phenomena are chief items of complaint. Too much regulation has made the bulk of them mad, especially the smaller farmers who say the only benefits go to the big farmers. In Minnesota in the small towns and villages they talk almost exactly as do folks in Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky, and other Mississippi Valley states.

Gov. John Bricker of Ohio has many friends in the state. They speak of his stand on domestic and foreign questions in recent speeches, applauding his views, but saying he does not seem to b picking up enough delegates. Nearly everybody tapped for political comment says it looks like Dewey, maybe on the first ballot. One remark of ten heard is that Dewey will probably make the best candidate but Bricker might probably make the best president.

PICK M'MURRAY IN WISCONSIN TO RUN FOR SENATE

Wausau, Wis., May 7 [Special].—The Wisconsin state Democratic convention today indorsed a slate of candidates headed by Rep. Howard McMurray [D., 5th district] for the United States senate and Kenneth Hones, president of the Wisconsin Farmers' union, for governor.

Others on the slate were Marshall Whaling of Milwaukee, international representative of the AFL union of operating engineers, for lieutenant governor; State Sen. Anthony Gawronski of Milwaukee for secretary of state; Gustave Keller of Appleton for attorney general, and Julius Seyfert of Eagle River for state treasurer.

The convention closed tonight after adopting a platform calling for the "continued leadership" of President Roosevelt and advocating membership by the United States in an international organization possessing organized force competent to keep the peace.

Bullet Misses Burglar, but He Drops Some Loot

A Negro burglar, fleeing from the building at 19 W. Jackson blvd. early yesterday with two bundles, dropped one of them when Charles R. Weinstock, 430 E. Highland av., Highland Park, building engineer, fired at him. It contained $80 worth of clothing stolen from the Associated Military store on the third floor.

SHERIFF POPS QUESTION FOR SON; ACCEPTED

East Orange, N. J., May 7 [Special].—Undersheriff Wilson H. Kierstead of Essex county had an engagement ring in his pocket and a girl to propose to. He dropped to one knee and popped the question. The girl said yes.

The undersheriff, a married man of long standing, told the story with pride today. He was acting, he explained, by proxy for his son, Ensign Marvin A. Kierstead, on duty in the Mediterranean theater. The girl is Elizabeth Walthouer of East Orange.

"I showed Elizabeth my son's letter, in which he asked me to propose for him, spoke my piece for Marvin and slipped the ring on her finger," he said. "I was mighty proud to do it, too."

BLOOD MIRACLE FINALLY WORKS; NAPLES JOYFUL

Prayers 'Liquefy' Its Holy Vials After 22 Hours.

NAPLES, Italy, May 7 (AP).—Church bells rang out in Naples today as it was announced that the blood of St. Januarius, patron saint of the city, had liquefied at 2:20 p. m., 22 hours after the annual solemn ceremony of the liquefaction had begun at the cathedral.

Two vials containing a dark, reddish solid substance were being passed by an elderly priest before the kneeling faithful for them to kiss, when the change occurred.

At first a few drops appeared. Then the contents slowly turned to liquid of brighter red. The priest held up the vials for all to see, while many in the cathedral wept for joy.

Reject Natural Explanation.

Many explanations have been offered for the annual phenomenon of the liquefaction of what is said to be the blood of the martyred saint. These include the theory that the process takes place because of the generation of heat in the crowded cathedral, but Roman Catholic authorities have rejected the theory of a heat induced transformation as inadequate.

Pious Neapolitans, who regard the phenomenon as an augury for good, were elated.

Had there been no transformation, or as Neapolitans say, "miracle of the liquefaction," the people would have regarded the failure as a sign that unhappy Naples, already devastated by war, would suffer even more in the year to come.

Weep as "Miracle" Fails.

The liquefaction is said to have taken place almost every year for centuries. But last night, after hours of prayers in the cathedral, many in the devout crowd wept when it did not occur, and the ceremony was adjourned because of the war time curfew.

Today, many accepted the change as a manifestation that, while the coming year would not be too happy, it would be an improvement upon the past year of distress and destruction.

Among those who witnessed the phenomenon were American soldiers. Some accepted it as a miracle. Others said they thought it might be due to natural causes.

SIGN OF CROSS SEEN IN SKY DURING RAID ALARM STIRS BRITISH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 7.—London newspapers are giving considerable space to the "sign of the cross," which numerous residents of eastern England stoutly maintain was visible in the sky for 15 minutes during a recent air raid alert.

According to stories emanating from Ipswich, where the local pastor is investigating the vision, those who have given detailed descriptions include a naval commander, a caretaker and his wife, a carpenter, a locomotive engineer, gardeners, and housewives.

The consensus of the statements is that the vision gradually grew clearer until the figure of Christ was so distinct that it was possible to see the nails holding His feet. Then it gradually faded until it finally disappeared as the all clear sounded.

One paper also quotes Dr. F. W. Edridge Green, an eye specialist, who suggests that the first person may have seen something resembling a cross and imagined the rest. Others thought they saw the same thing because of the power of suggestion.

Doukhobors Strip in Park in Front of 1,500

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 7 (AP).—Sixteen members of a visiting Doukhobor youth delegation were arrested today after stripping off their clothing before 1,500 Sunday strollers in Stanley park. Nine men and seven women took part in the demonstration, which ended with the arrival of police patrol wagons. The demonstrators were booked on charges of failing to show their national registration cards.

BOMBER FALLS INTO CEMETERY; CREW OF 5 DIES

West Chester, Pa., May 7 (AP).—A twin engine army bomber emerged from a rain cloud and crashed in Oakland cemetery, a mile and one-half north of here today, killing all five of its occupants. Bodies of the crew members, the parachute of one of them partially open, were found, badly burned, 50 feet to 100 yards from the charred wreckage.

Four Known Dead in Collision.

Miami, Fla., May 7 (AP).—Capt. Lee J. Halling of Long Beach, Cal., pilot of a four engine army bomber which collided in flight with a twin motor cargo carrier, and three of his crew members are known to have lost their lives in the accident, it was announced today by the army. Another victim was reported to be Capt. Kenneth O. Wright, instructor, Dallas, Tex. Hundreds of persons in the Lake Worth, Fla., area saw the bomber and the carrier collide and fall into the ocean. The smaller plane also carried a crew of four.

Six Reported Killed.

Elmira, N. Y., May 7 (AP).—An army cargo transport crashed and burned last night on a hill near Chemung county airport in a rain. Sheriff George H. Jenkins reported all six occupants were killed and that their bodies were found today in the wreckage. Names of the dead were withheld.

Sixth Crash Victim Dies.

Scottsbluff, Neb., May 7 (AP).—Flight Officer Walter L. Jensen of St. Paul, Minn., died in a hospital here today, bringing to six the number of men killed Friday when an army bomber from the McCook, Neb., army air base crashed and burned 13 miles northeast of Morrill, Neb.

Illinoisan Dies in Crash.

HOW SOON CAN YOU BUY A NEW CAR?

Maybe longer than you think

Here's why:

Already, millions of people need new cars. Over 5,000 cars are going off the road every day!

So, even when war conditions permit the industry to start building cars again, the present demand could not be met for a long, long time. For, not everybody will be able to buy the first cars built.

That's why we say: take good care of that car of yours! It may have to last you a lot longer than you think!

Drive it carefully. And give it a complete check-up at least twice a year. Once in the Spring. Once in the Fall.

Right now, it's time for the Spring tune-up. Let your Packard dealer check those vital points that will help save you gas, oil, and tires, and prolong the life of your car.

When car owners speak their minds

Wartime driving is a real test of car quality. Some cars are standing up better than others. Here's what owners of Packards and other makes said in a recent coast-to-coast survey:

3—Packard owners have spent less on service.

Packard ownership pays off in dependable, economical transportation... a fact worth keeping in mind whenever you can buy a new car!

The Golden Spike united the East with the West

in Utah, was the scene of a history-making event on May 10, 1869—the realization of a great American's dream. It was Abraham Lincoln who visualized the vital need for uniting, by rail, the East with the Pacific Coast, and who authorized the building of a transcontinental railroad.

The Union Pacific struggled through lean and troubled years but, like other pioneers, it had faith in America's future. Edward H. Harriman had unbounded faith in America. His guiding genius—and the faith of the leaders "from the ranks" who followed him, gave strength and vigor to the railroad.

America always has offered unlimited opportunity and ample reward as an incentive for hard work and individual enterprise. That's why it's such a great country. It's our job to keep it that way.

* * *

This year marks the 75th Anniversary—the Diamond Jubilee—of the driving of the Golden Spike, the completion of "The Strategic Middle Route." Union Pacific commemorates that historic occasion by continuing to exert every effort in the transportation of materials and troops so that victory and peace may soon be ours.

Boy Sopranos Are Charming in 2 Concerts

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Boy sopranos held the concert front yesterday, with the Paulist Choristers under the direction of Father Eugene O'Malley celebrating the choir's 40th season at Orchestra hall, while an extraordinary 11 year old, André Aerne, sang an adult program with disarming musicianship at Kimball hall. In the interest of conserving shoe leather and general wear and tear on itinerant reviewers, André would have fitted in admirably at Orchestra hall. As things were, I, for one, heard far too little of his recital.

But no one who knows Chicago or choirs could be lured for long from one of Father O'Malley's annual concerts. How that man must work the other 364 days of the year to make the spring performance so serenely a success. Year after year his boy sopranos grow up and develop cracks in the fluted silver tone that makes his choir at its best sound like a celestial organ. And in this year of war the choir's service flag has 24 stars, one of them gold. If the standard had slumped a little, who could cavil?

But it hasn't slumped. The lovely introductory motet which is the choir's way of tuning up both voices and audience had the same exquisite texture, the same transparency of tone, and the same dexterous balance of color, light, and shade—anyone familiar with the Paulist Choristers would recognize it anywhere in the world. These same qualities held thru the radiance of the Gloria and the Sanctus from Palestrina's Missa Brevis, thru the English Pastoral, which had redhaired William Brown, retiring soprano soloist, singing a gleaming farewell, thru the singularly light and buoyant performance of "Brother James' Air," and thru other music, including "O Gloriosa Virginum," written for the choristers by Felix Borowski, with a particularly interesting feeling for the subtle interplay of voices that is one of Father O' Malley's special talents.

There were numerous soloists. Young Robert Lis bowed gravely and sang a fluting song as William Brown's successor, Maximilian Schmelter and Michael Signorelli stepped out to do credit to the lyric tenors, and Stefan Kozakevich, often heard here with the San Carlo Opera, and occasionally with our own opera, sang "Vision Fugitive" in a thick Russian baritone considerably more lyric than his opera roles had led me to suspect. There was an announcement, too. People who like to make their plans early were informed that the choristers will sing Christmas carols at Orchestra hall next Dec. 18.

* * *

Wearing a white linen suit instead of the chorister's surplice, André Aerne tackled everything from Mozart's "Alleluia" and Delibes' "Bell Song" to Debussy's "Green" and David's "Charmant Oiseau," with no less an accompanist than Edgar Nelson at the piano. By all the laws of concertgoing, it should have been an error condoned only by loving friends and family. Instead, it was a charming recital. I heard only the final group, two of Weckerlin's Bergerettes, the Debussy "Romance," and "Green," and the birdlike coloratura aria. They were delightfully, even remarkably sung, in a sweet, true voice and with what seemed to be an instinctive sense of style. He is a gifted youngster, as much at home on the concert stage as a singing bird in a tree.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 7.—John Hodiak is off to Reno, but only for a vacation. Could he be planning to meet Lana Turner there? I wonder. . . . Now that Judy Garland's divorce is going thru, one may couple Judy's name with Bob Walker. . . . Kyle Crichton is proud that Fritz Lang wants his "Proud People" for a stage play next fall. . . . Jennifer Jones gets $3,500 to appear opposite Walter Pidgeon on his May 21 show. Who says an award doesn't pay? . . .

Maria Montez.

Lana Turner.

Jennifer Jones.

Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Jr. won't see her husband when she goes to England as a war correspondent. He's in Italy. . . . Nice radio teaming—Cass Daley and Charles Ruggles. That should be a picture combination as well. . . . Jack Warner gives his directors a chance. Bob Florey will do "God Is My Co-Pilot" with Humphrey Bogart. This is by far Florey's best script.

Lights All On for the Boys.

Desi Arnaz, working for soldiers at Birmingham hospital here, together with RKO has arranged for 50 boys to attend the opening Wednesday night of "Show Business" at the Chinese theater. Each boy will have a companion. They'll include Judy Garland, Lucille Ball, Nancy Kelly, Gene Tierney, Constance Moore, Bonita Granville, Gale Storm, Eva Gabor, Ava Gardner, Simone Simon, Jane Wyatt, Mona Maris, Veronica Lake, and Francis Griffith among others. I'm to have the privilege of being senior hostess. That's an evening I'm looking forward to. We hope George Murphy will be master of ceremonies, but if he's off on location, Joan Davis is set for it. Greta Garbo and Binnie Barnes sang duets at a recent party. Too bad Binnie didn't wait until her husband returned from overseas before beginning her divorce action. . . . Mainbocher, who made over our little Mary Martin into his version of Venus, thinks Maria Montez, if properly dressed, could be the most chatter-stopping wench in all Hollywood. In other words—breathtaking!

Solid Sending on the Bond Front.

Bob O'Donnell is off to Washington to confer about the next bond drive. Before leaving he huddled with the victory committee, and they decided it's a pretty good plan to send out to cities and small towns a unit of three—an old-timer who can speak and also entertain; [suppose we mention a few names: Charles Ruggles, Chill Wills, Edgar Buchanan, Barry Fitzgerald, and Walter Brennan], a pretty starlet, and a soldier in uniform who's been thru it all. . . . Lloyd Pantages is back from South Pacific, thin as a wafer. He was delighted with his luncheon reception at Romanoff's. The same day a giggle went up when two young suntanned beauties appeared at the bar in shorts, with halter sweaters and bronzed midriff. . . . Walt Disney's "Saludos Amigos" has been recorded in Spanish, Portuguese, and Swedish, in addition to English and Italian. Before the war, Disney made 10 language versions of his pictures. The soviet market is being considered, too, since the enviable success of "Der Fuehrer's Face," his first picture done in Russian.

A Bit of Thisa and Thata.

Eugene Loring, who did dances for "Carmen Jones," has been snared by Metro in a six-way contract. After losing Don Loper they decided to do for him what they wouldn't for Don. Loring's first part is playing a jockey for "National Velvet." . . . Lee Bowman, just finished with Jean Arthur, makes love to Rita Hayworth in "Tonight and Every Night." I always said once he got started he'd go places. Evidently Harry Conn agrees with me. . . . Jean Arthur gave Charles Coburn a bow and arrow. No, not of gold and diamonds. Charles played "Cupid" to Jean in three pictures. . . . Dave Chasen has become Dan Cupid's co-worker. Dave gave the wedding supper for Charles Brackett's daughter. He'll do the same thing for Phil Baker and Irmbard Erik. But if Phil lived up to his threat to me, the bride would have a headless husband. He assured me if he married within 10 years, he'd send me his head on a silver platter. I'll be big, take the silver platter, and call it even.

Mark Twain Knew His Onions.

Mark Twain always was a showman. I remember him in the theater at a performance given by Julia Marlowe and E. H. Sothern. He was seated alone in an upper box. Even tho the air was chilly, he was dressed completely in white, and with that white shaggy head of his, took half the attention away from the stage. . . . Andy Lawlor, on his birthday, wired his mother, "42 years ago I was giving you a hell of a time." . . . Eileen Pringle tells me the most polite man she's ever worked with is Phil Karlstein, who directed "A Wave, a Wac and a Marine." After each scene he thanked every one, including the extras. . . . Betty Garrett's Clover club opening marks her west coast debut. Hollywood's already got its eye in her direction. . . . Command Performance with Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Gypsy Rose Lee, and Betty Hutton will have fellows jumping out of their foxholes. Crosby spends three evenings a week making recordings for men overseas. I had a note from a sailor, Graham Archer, who used to be with us on "Sunkist." He heard my first Command Performance under the sea. He was in a submarine at the time.

Movie Is Study of Stars and—Hedy Lamarr

"THE HEAVENLY BODY."

A Metro-Goldyn-Mayer picture, starring Hedy Lamarr and William Powell, directed by Alexander Hall, and presented at the Chicago.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

It being fashionable to wear your old things, "The Heavenly Body" dons the ancient plot idea about the husband who neglects his wife for business and lookee what happens.

In the present instance, the man is an astronomer, and his wife turns for diversion to astrology and an air raid warden. . . . Complications attendant on the developing "triangle" are off the beaten track and sometimes amusing.

Hedy Lamarr is earnest, naive, and, of course, very, very gorgeous as the wife who craves love. William Powell plays the engrossed comet discoverer in familiar fashion but he is more at home with Myrna Loy and as "The Thin Man." James Craig measures up to qualifications demanded of the air raid warden, as do Spring Byington as a neighbor, and Fay Bainter as the astrologer who causes all the rumpus. Minor roles are pleasingly handled.

The picture is smartly dressed and beautifully photographed.

And the "heavenly body" is the comet named for the hero—NOT Miss Lamarr, as you may have supposed. Tho of course——?

Methodist Orphanage to Open Golden Jubilee Celebration

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE annual meeting of the Methodist Deaconess orphanage at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Casino club will signal the opening of the institution's golden jubilee celebration. To coincide with the jubilee the board this year will complete the building program it started 15 years ago. Climaxing the anniversary celebration, some 1,500 friends of the orphanage will be invited to a banquet at a loop hotel on Oct. 13, 50 years to the day from the date on which the Methodist Deaconess home of Chicago first rented a cottage in Lake Bluff for homeless children.

Rockwell F. Clancy will preside at the meeting tomorrow, at which Mrs. Alden B. Swift will read the treasurer's report. Mr. Clancy, Mrs. Swift, and the board's vice president, Frank Milhenning, all are up for reëlection tomorrow night. Miss Margaret M. Brooks, superintendent of the orphanage, will speak, and some of the children who live there will give a program. Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mrs. Albert B. Dick Jr., Mrs. Proehl H. Jaklon, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Baker Jr., and Mrs. Owen West are among the home's supporters.

Among improvements contemplated to round out the building program this year are the erection of a new dining hall and another residence hall. Friends of the orphanage will have a chance to inspect recent additions to the property at an open house in June.

Other Meetings.

The annual spring luncheon of the Association House auxiliary at 12:30 p. m. today in the settlement house will help promote the auxiliary's project of raising money for the care of children of working mothers in the North av. area. Miss Ellen Holt, vice president of the board, with which she has been identified for 45 years, will speak. Mrs. George A. Vollmer will preside.

The Association House board is unusual in that husbands and wives serve together and share their interest in the organization's work. Some of the wives who are expected at the auxiliary's luncheon are Mrs. Edward Benninghoven, whose husband heads the board; Mrs. F. Strother Cary Jr., Mrs. Frank Sims, Mrs. Lee H. Williams, and Mrs. Jere Patterson.

The North Shore Vassar club has been invited to attend the annual luncheon meeting of the Chicago Vassar club at 12:30 p. m. today at the Chicago College club, where recent movies of the college will be shown. Miss Anne Ryerson, Miss Jessica Rattray and Miss Sallie Ellen Welsh, who were graduated on April 19, will describe the college's new plan, under which students receive their degrees in three years. Slated for election are Mrs. Errett Van Nice as first vice president; Mrs. T. F. Geraghty Jr. as treasurer, and Mrs. Perry H. Kenly Jr. as corresponding secretary.

Engagements Announced.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Nancy Katherine Robertson to Sanford Roy Dietrich of the naval reserve, which comes from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Robertson of Kansas City, Mo., is of interest here because Miss Robertson has three Highland Park relatives, her grandmother, Mrs. Leander LeRoy Winters; an aunt, Mrs. Thales N. Lenington, and a great-aunt, Mrs. Harry S. Gradle.

Miss Robertson will be graduated in June from the university of Kansas. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dietrich of Kansas City, will receive his degree in September from the Yale university school of medicine, and the wedding will take place shortly thereafter.

Mr. and Mrs. Claire H. Pease of Highland Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Rosemary, to Ernest B. Porter Jr., son of Mrs. A. Vance Anderson of Pasadena, Cal., and of the late Dr. Porter. Miss Pease will be graduated next month from Northwestern university, where her fiancé is attending the medical school under the army specialized training program.

Here and There.

Two hundred friends of Charles N. Loucks have been invited to drop into his home at 3900 N. Keeler av. after 3:30 p. m. today to extend their best wishes on his 90th birthday anniversary. Miss Mabel and Miss Mildred Loucks, Vernon R. and Charles O. Loucks will help their father celebrate the occasion, but another son, Roy Loucks, is unable to come from San Francisco.

Lt. and Mrs. Frank Osborne Elliott and their baby, Edith Christina, are at home temporarily in Miami, Fla., while Lt. Elliott attends an advanced naval training school there.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bacon Jr. and their baby now are settled in New Haven, Conn., where Mr. Bacon is continuing his studies at Yale university after receiving a medical discharge from the services.

Sally Requests Wheel Chairs for 3 Invalids

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A case worker has asked our assistance in obtaining a wheel chair for one of her clients. He is an elderly man who is almost completely paralyzed and unable to walk, and whose only source of income is an old age pension which provides for his room and board with a private family. He is living in a basement apartment, and if a wheel chair could be obtained, he could be made much more comfortable. The address is on the near west side.

A similar request comes from a family on the far south side of the city. Mrs. B. has been ill and unable to walk for the last eight years. Her daughter, who also is ill, has been caring for her, and moving her mother has been a great physical strain. If a light wheel chair could be provided, it would facilitate caring for the invalid and would enable her to be taken outdoors occasionally.

Mrs. W. is also caring for an elderly parent who is an invalid. Because of a form of paralysis, she is unable to walk alone, and an invalid chair would permit her to move about the house. The address is on the west side. Miss W., her daughter, will be glad to arrange transportation.

If any reader has elastic bandages which are no longer needed, Mrs. X. would be grateful for them. Her only son is in service, she is living on a family allowance, and needs the bandages.

Thru the Looking Glass

If you've had nail trouble such as we've had lately you'll be glad to be reminded that there are a few good external aids to nail health.

What's happening to feminine finger nails lately we don't know. Maybe it's the increased amount of work many of us are doing—like washing the clothes a laundress used to take care of. Maybe it's just that skin dryness that shows up after a long, hard winter.

What most nails need, unless there is some organic cause for their frailty, is oiling with a preparation designed especially to aid nail health and cuticle pliability. In our own distress recently we turned to an old, old friend—a thick pink nail cream we first discovered in some good beauty shops several years ago. It's now on the consumer market, where it has a deservedly large following.

We don't know what's in it. What we do know is that its use seems to make bristling cuticle soft and pliable as warm wax. Maybe it's imagination, but we've felt that after one overnight application a cuticle, so brittle and rough that it tore when one touched it, had more resilience and smoothness next day. And we're sure that one week of using the cream daily did wonders.

This is to be used lightly over the entire nail and more generously at its base. It seems to supply something thin, brittle nails need, tho it should be considered a preventive rather than a cure-all for nail troubles. It's not expensive and there's no reason why, if your nails are prone to split or break off, you shouldn't use it during the day as well as at night. It's a little greasy, but during the day you can use it sparingly and massage it in well. Slather it on at night, tho, and get the habit of using it regularly. If a nail breaks after this kind of care, it will be because it got a bad bump, not because it's more delicate than it should be. ELEANOR NANGLE.

4,000 Foster Homes Needed by War Wards

A home front casualty list which includes names of many not even born when the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor is mounting daily in the files of the United Home Finding service, 343 S. Dearborn st.

Victims on this list are Chicago's neglected and dependent children who have been deprived of normal childhood by parents who abandoned them or failed to provide adequate care. The youngsters are now wards of the 14 child welfare agencies of the city and are for placement in foster homes.

"We need 4,000 foster homes to take care of these children, many of them innocent victims of war," Miss Charlotte Byrum, director of the home finding campaign, said.

Case histories disclosed two basic causes for the physical and mental injuries which war has brought to these children: a father in the service and a mother who is unable to react in a normal manner to the abnormal strains of war time world.

Karen, 11 months old, is one of the children for placement. She was removed from the custody of her mother when it was discovered that she had been kept awake all day so she would be exhausted at night and fall into a deep sleep, thus permitting the mother to go to a movie or visit a tavern. One night the landlady found Karen standing in her bed in a dark room hysterical from terror. Social welfare officials were on hand when the mother returned long after midnight, and steps were taken to assure proper care for the child.

Ronnie, 3, was abandoned in a movie theater by his mother. His father is overseas and his mother cannot be found. Unless some foster parents give him the care needed until his father returns he will have to be placed in an institution.

"Some of the injuries suffered by these children are so deep there is little hope for their recovery unless they are taken into foster homes and given a chance to live a normal childhood," Miss Margaret Brooks of the Methodist Deaconess orphanage said.

Last week more than 500 TRIBUNE readers responded to the call for foster homes, but hundreds more are needed, the home finding service said.

It is easy to become a foster parent. The only qualification needed is a love for children. Medical, food, and clothing expenses are provided by the social agencies. Children of all races and religion are available for placement in Chicago and Illinois but not out of state, the director of the home finding campaign explained.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Getting Down to Work.

A secretary in a brokerage firm: "Decidedly more. As soon as I get into the office my boss is ready for work and begins calling: 'When you're squared away will you do this or that' so the first 10 minutes each morning I run around with a comb in my hand."

A personnel director for a trust company: "Most girls report for work and then are gone from their desks whereas men take off their hats and settle down at their desks. But then, men have hair easy to comb or no hair at all!"

A training director for a merchandise company: "A certain amount of delay at the beginning of the day is to be expected of women workers, especially when so many women now are employed who are not accustomed to nor geared to a work day."

A counselor for a utility company: "So much depends on the attitude of the person directing the department. I've taken it for granted that if we sell our services from 9 to 5 we should be ready for work at 9 o'clock."

A woman executive: "It's all very well to complain because women fuss around a little in the morning, but men have to look at us, and if we don't comb our hair they don't like it! Besides, men go out to smoke and for coffee and haircuts and they gossip and probably waste more time in a work day than women do!"

Sure Fire.

And another way to make a hit in the office is to have a birthday cake which, when passed around, is enough for everybody. EME.

Archbishop Joins in Golden Jubilee Service at Hospital

A half century of healing and helpfulness was recognized yesterday by Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch at St. Mary of Nazareth hospital, 1120 N. Leavitt st., where he presided at a golden jubilee solemn pontifical mass of thanksgiving. The Most Rev. William D. O'Brien, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, was the celebrant of the mass, offered in the hospital chapel.

Puzzled Girl Gets Answer to Date Problem

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

On the Solid Side

Q.—"I am in third year high school and this past summer I met a boy whom I like very much. I thought he liked me for several months because he took me home from parties and dances and called me often. We had a prom at my school and I invited him but he told me that he had other plans for that evening. I know for certain that he did have previous plans because some of my friends saw him at the place he told me he had plans to go. But since the day I asked him to my prom he has never asked me for a date and has never even asked me to dance with him again! When I asked him what was wrong he gave me a very rude answer. I can't understand what could have happened because I have never done anything to harm this boy. What do you think I should do? I still like this boy . . ."

A.—Just revise the popular song title and—"do nothing till you hear from him." There's something wrong somewhere but now that you've done your bit to straighten things out, the next move is up to him. Incidentally, did you ask your friends to find out if he really had plans for prom night? Maybe he heard about it and rebelled at your Gestapo tactics. And are you sure you want to date him again—or did his discourtesy and "rude answer" cross him off the dream-boy list? Nothing you can do but cross your fingers and wait—if he wants a date, he still has your phone number, hasn't he?

Q.—"I've been going almost steady with a girl I've known a long time. We go skating every Friday night and have a lot of fun and on week-ends I call her for a date, usually a show. I like being with her but would like to go out on double dates once in a while and I don't think she does. We know quite a few people with whom we could double but I think she prefers "just us two." It might sound silly but I don't want to hurt her feelings."

A.—Maybe she thinks you don't want to double date, too—so why not ask her? If you're going "almost steady" she shouldn't get huffy over a little honest conversation. Sometimes a gal enjoys having a few extra jacksons around; if you keep your dating strictly in the coosome twosome department, you two may get tired of each other!

Pictures of Flowers and Colored Prints Are Easy to Frame

Have you some flower pictures that you've cut out of magazines, or colored prints that you've been collecting? You can frame them quite easily and artistically yourself, and at small cost.

Use wallboard, thin composition board, or very heavy cardboard for mats and cover them with gift wrapping paper which you buy by the sheet and which comes in any number of designs—stripes, polka dots, etc., or use remnants of glazed chintz or cretonne. Of course, the more colorful and lively the picture, the more simple and neutral the mat should be.

After you've mounted your print protect it with plain window glass cut to fit, and bind the edges with passepartout or with colored gummed package tape.

'Danger List'

By Christianna Brand

(Copyright: 1944: By Mary Christianna Lewis.)

SYNOPSIS—Joseph Higgins, the postman, delivers seven letters accepting service in Heron's Park Military hospital. Dr. Gervase Eden, homely but charming, hopes to escape from a fashionable practice. Jane Woods, middle aged successful dress designer, gives up her career to become a nurse's aid. Esther Sanson, against the wishes of a neurotic mother, offers her services. Dr. Moon, whose only son was accidentally killed in childhood, hopes to escape loneliness. Dr. Barnes, exonerated for the loss of a life under the anaesthetic, welcomes a change of scene. Frederica Linley, whose wealthy father remarries, prefers nursing to home. Nurse Marion Bates, man-crazy, is in search of romance. The postman does not know that within a year one of the writers of these letters will die, a self-confessed murderer. Dr. Eden tires of his flirtation with Sister Bates, who tries desperately to impress him. With Dr. Barnes, it's love at first sight when he sees Frederica. During an air raid, Esther stays on to give a hand to Frederica. An elderly man with a fractured femur is brought in. Six months ago Esther's mother was an air raid victim. It was then Frederica and Woods had become her friends. Dr. Eden visits the ward to arrange for an operation. Esther looks after her patient. Another victim of the air raid is brought in. During a lull, Dr. Barnes comes to the booth to see Frederica and is followed by Dr. Eden, who impulsively kisses her, and is sorry. Sister Bates, finding him in the booth, creates a jealous scene, threatening to expose him.

JANE WOODS' PLAN.

Frederica had retreated into the dark recess of the screens round the newcomer's bed; she came to the door and stood there, staring after Marion Bates and Dr. Eden. "Heavens—supposing she does tell Barney!" Their unconsciously raised voices had reached her clearly thru the thin partition. "Supposing she tells Barney—he'd never speak to me again; he'd never love me again! I should lose him, and all for a man like Gervase Eden . . . Gervase would love me for a week or a month, and then just let me go. O, Barney, why don't I just stick to you, when you're so decent and sweet and you love me so much more than I deserve . . . but the moment Gervase comes along, my heart turns over and my knees go to water . . . it's disgusting!"

She shrugged her little shoulders and smoothed down her apron and settled her starched white veil; "I suppose I'd better look to my suffering patients."

Esther had just arrived from the ward and was sitting in their quarters with Woods, discussing Frederica's infatuation. A benevolent providence had placed a small row of cottages at the main gates of the park, and here the V. A. D.'s were accommodated. The cottages were small and dark and inconvenient, but the plumbing was adequate and each had a tiny kitchen with a gas stove.

They sat very comfortably with their feet on the fender, drinking cups of cocoa, in defiance of all orders that nobody was to remain in their quarters after blackout during a raid. Esther said thoughtfully: "What people can see in Gervase, I never could understand. I mean, he's nice and he's funny, but he's as ugly as anything, so thin and gray and, well, he must be at least 40 . . ."

"Ah, but you're a lady icicle, Esther."

"Well, I must be, because I seem to be the only female in the hospital who can see Gervase Eden without swooning at his feet. How did the great Act go tonight?"

Woods grinned. "Not bad at all. I caught up with Casanova as he came out of the concert and I put on a terrific air of indifference and tried to look anxious to get away, and it was such a change for him, poor lamb, that he fell for it like a log."

"I should say it would," agreed Woods. "However, it would do no harm, Esther, and the effect would be the same. Frederica would see that some other female has only to whistle and off he goes like a shot."

"Ah, yes, but it's one thing for Gervase to sicken of Bates and turn his attentions to Freddi; quite another for him to start running after fat old Woody, right in the first stages of his affair with Frederica!"

"Are you so sure it's an affair, darling?"

"Well, Freddi goes round looking like a lovesick hen all the time he's about; and love may be blind, but if it gets any worse, Barney's bound to see it. Barney wouldn't take a thing like this lightly, you know, Esther. It's as much for Barney's sake as Frederica's that I want to put an end to it if I can."

"I hope this won't get you into a mess, tho, Woody," said Esther, still not satisfied.

Woods sat staring into the fire, the lines of laughter ironed, for a moment, out of her face. She said, slowly: "My dear, I'm past getting into messes. I've led a bit of a comic life, Esther, doing no harm to anyone that I could see, except, perhaps, to myself. Freddi's different. She's so young and she's so pretty and attractive; she must settle down with Barney, Esther. If she went and got herself a past, she'd lose all that; she'd lose her faith in herself and, you know, I don't believe she'd marry Barney. If I can prevent her from going off the rocks with this Don Juan of hers, by fair means or foul, I will.

"Well, I hope it works, Woody; and I hope you get thanks from Frederica, if it does!"

"I don't want any thanks," said Woods calmly.

It was always a miracle after a heavy raid, to look out in the morning and see one's world still intact. Esther walked across the grounds with Woody. "I believe there's a new crater in the field over there . . . that must have been the one that fell at about 10. I could have sworn it was nearer."

The new fracture case was agreeably surprised to see her on the ward. "Hallo. I haven't met you before!"

"I've met you," she said, smiling, not pausing in her assault upon his person with a large, wet flannel. "I saw you last night being wheeled across the theater; but you weren't taking much notice at the time."

"I couldn't have been," he said, grinning.

He was a young man, a slim, blond, smiling young man with bright blue eyes and something pleasant and clean and reliable about him. Esther recognized in him something a little different from the ordinary run. She said, kindly: "How are you feeling today?"

"O, I'm not too bad for 7 o'clock in the morning. They say I've fractured my tibia and fibula or something. What does that mean?"

"It means that you've broken the two bones running down the front of your leg; they generally get sort of—overlapping, you know, and you have to have them pulled apart so that the bones can meet and have a chance to unite again. I expect you'll be strung up like this to an extension frame for a little while—several weeks; but it won't hurt, not very much; and then they'll fix you up in a plaster and you'll be able to hop.

"It'll take a long time and it isn't exactly heaven; but that's the worst there is to know."

He looked at her intently. "Are you just telling me this?"

"No," said Esther. "I don't 'just tell' people things. Give me your other hand."

"Are you going to hold it for me?" he asked, laughing.

"Only as long as it takes to wash it; and don't try and flirt with me—I don't like it."

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Now that all meats with the exception of beef steaks and roasts have been declared point free, we can choose other cuts of beef, pork, veal, lamb, variety, and canned meats without opening our ration books. However, this doesn't mean that all of the points formerly expended for hamburger, pork, and lamb can be diverted to bigger and better steaks.

There'll be only half as many red stamps available as before, and butter, margarine, cheese, and evaporated milk still require red stamps. This 50 per cent reduction in the number of usable stamps is intended to prevent a sudden clamoring for juicy sirloin steaks and rib roasts.

I can't figure out how there can be so many high quality steaks still around after we've been warned again and again to expect low quality beef. On the rare occasions when my family can afford to spend the red points for steak, I deliberate a little on whether to broil it as usual, or to assume it not to be tender, and braise it. So far, I've broiled, and the steaks have been tender.

There's no question as to the proper method for preparing ration free flank steak, for it's one of the tougher cuts of meat that requires braising. Dredge the steak with seasoned flour and brown on both sides in hot fat. Add a little liquid, water, or tomato juice, and cook, covered, over low heat until meat is tender, adding more liquid, a little at a time, as needed. Make gravy by thickening liquid in the pan. Vegetables may be cooked with the flank steak if desired.

It is foolish for any family to stock up on point free fats for a later time when they'll be rationed again. All fats have definite limitations in freshness. Butter is most perishable. Some of the hydrogenized vegetable shortenings have excellent keeping qualities, but they have their limits, too. Salad oils sometimes become rancid so gradually that the off-flavor may not be noticed until it turns up some time in a company salad!

Did you know you can buy canned asparagus, peas, spinach, green beans, tomatoes, and corn, all without blue points? Especially appreciated are the last two named vegetables, which have so many cookery uses and are so much more popular with homemakers than the canned green vegetables. Beets in cans are point free, too!

Summer Gowns Revealing, but in Good Taste

BY REA SEEGER.

The new summer fashions, cut with emphasis on a decent exposure of back, shoulders, and arms, have been created by top flight designers who intuitively know just how far a gouged out backline, the narrowest straps, and the deepest decollétage can go without offense. So, while the collection of slashed-down-to-the-limit clothes is daring and exciting, not a single costume can be regarded as being in bad taste.

◆

The dull blacks are tops. You'll find a slim sheath-dress with dramatic evening top teamed with a snug fitted jacket or bolero. Silks, crêpes, shantungs and linens in either swank play-clothes or town costumes all exploit the fashion exposé of the hour. Dresses made without a shadow of a sleeve, with a needle straight silhouette, and with a simply cut bodice top fore and aft look miraculously slender and unadorned. The arms from shoulder to fingertip are uncovered, the necklines also are ready for the rays of a summer sun. And nothing will look cooler on a sultry day.

◆

Vivid colors — pink, chartreuse, giddy greens and the brightest of blues and yellow—are characteristic of the Chinese silk shantung. Necklines are low and oval or low and square, and backbones are completely "out" in these models. Add the jacket of matching material, short sleeved and short, for discreet coverage for town and twilight and you have a most obliging costume.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

A Chicago poet, Mrs. Helen Baird La Monte, whose verse appears in The Wake of the News, is turning her talent to patriotic advantage.

Mrs. La Monte is a volunteer worker in the Chicago service men's center No. 1, 176 W. Washington st., from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. every Tuesday and Thursday. At her desk she welcomes service men who wish to send messages to their mothers, sisters, wives, or sweethearts, and forms their thoughts into sprightly verse.

She first realized that such a service would appeal to men in uniform when she began receiving poems from soldiers and sailors both in the United States and overseas who had read her two volumes, "Nonce Sense" and "Laughter in the Rain."

The Marine Mothers' club will have an election meeting at 8:15 p. m. tomorrow at headquarters, 188 W. Randolph st. The sisters' and wives' club, an auxiliary, will meet at the same hour for a general session.

Mrs. Catherine Rogal is president of the mothers, who once a month give a party for marine corpsmen in the wards of the hospital at the Great Lakes Naval Training station. Each ward is visited in rotation. Members bring entertainment, gifts, and refreshments for 100 men at each party. The next such event will be held from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. on May 23.

◆

The American Camp and Hospital service, 540 Briar pl., will have a card party, the first of a series of monthly money-raising events, on Wednesday afternoon at headquarters. Money in the organization's treasury goes to furnishing recreation and sunrooms in military hospitals in the Chicago area.

Miss M. Karel Spak and Mrs. Ida Weller are co-chairmen of the party. Proceeds will go to the service's latest project, the furnishing of a sunroom at the new Vaughan General hospital, Hines.

Mrs. Louis Green, president, reports that the organization is completing its decoration program at both the marine hospital, 4141 Clarendon av., and the hospital at Fort Sheridan.

The mothers of the membership will go to the fort Sunday to attend a Mother's day tea from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. at the hospital, to which the club regularly contributes 2,000 prizes a month for the games the convalescent men play in the wards.

◆

The Polish government information center will be host to six delegates of the Polish women's army, headed by Capt. Irene Grodzka, at a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock today at the Tavern club, 333 N. Michigan av.

The Polish women soldiers, known as the Pestkis, are visiting WAC installations thruout the United States. They arrived in this country several weeks ago from Great Britain.

Home Can Be Too Efficient for Happiness

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"She's one of those bustling, efficient-seeming women. You'd think she did all the work in our office, but she doesn't accomplish half as much as the quiet ones," said an executive in an advertising firm to me one day in speaking of his staff.

That's quite often true of mothers who have the whole care of house and children. Some of them make a great splurge with their cleaning and ordering the children around and scheduling their time for this and that; and often they give the appearance of efficiency. But if you gauged their true efficiency by the livableness of their homes and the happiness and willing compliance of their children, you wouldn't necessarily call their process an efficient one in the best sense of the word.

A house can be so perfectly run and the machinery of housework loom so large, and make such a "dent" on the atmosphere, that it loses the warm, easy feeling of a home.

Likewise, children's time can be so closely budgeted and rules for their conduct so exact—with a penance for this and a punishment for that—that there is no room for the loving that comes with a little "loose" time, the nonsense that lifts spirits together and the companionship which altogether makes life worth living, and without which no deep close relationship between parents and children can exist.

Girl Regrets Her 'Uniform Infatuation'

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

A girl wants to break her engagement to a man in the service and asks us to pen the bad news lines for her. From this we beg to be excused on the grounds of incompetency. In situations of the sort there is only one person qualified to write the letter and that is the one who gave the man hopes.

We agree that in this case the breaking of the engagement is wise, since the man is years and years older than the girl, just turned 20, and, we gather from the girl's honest statements, she was rushed into the engagement. After the man left for service the girl began to worry about the wisdom of her "Yes," and on the soldier's pressure for an early marriage the girl's doubts increased. Now, she knows for sure that she was victim of "uniform infatuation," as she aptly calls it.

On his furlough the man began to act his age, in that he preferred the fireside. Dancing in some bright spot was the girl's idea of a happy evening. Then he began objecting to certain of her girl friends and the mention of the name of a male made him see red.

The man may make a perfectly good soldier but as a suitor some 20 odd years older than this girl we think him a flop. So, the girl should be grateful she made her discovery early enough and write him in her own words and in her own way that she made a mistake as she does not feel mature enough to settle down to a fireside existence yet.

The girl, of course, has worries about so treating a man in uniform but, under the age circumstances, we think the sooner it is over the better all round.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

The opening lead of a singleton, even in a suit bid by the enemy, may be the best available, but West's shift to a singleton in the following deal was little short of horrible.

NORTH
♠ K 7
♥ K 6 3
♦ A 9 6

WEST
♠ 10 6 3
♥ A 9 8 4
♦ K J 7 5 2
♣ 8

EAST
♠ Q 9 5 4 2
♥ 7
♦ Q 8 4 3
♣ Q 6 2

SOUTH
♠ A J 8
♥ Q J 10 5 2
♦ 10
♣ K 7 4 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	5 hearts	Pass
6 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

West toyed with the idea of opening his singleton club, but decided in favor of a low spade. South's jack won and trumps were attacked, West taking his ace on the third round. Now West decided to try for a club trick and ruff, and led his singleton. This was very pleasing indeed to the declarer, who naturally had been worrying about the missing club queen. The ten was played from dummy, and there was poor East, trapped!

It was possible, of course, that declarer would have guessed the position of the club queen if left to his own devices, but in view of the nine clubs in the North-South hands the greater probability was that he would have cashed the ace and king, playing for a drop. In any case it was criminal for West to have taken all the guess out of the situation. If he had opened the singleton he might have been excused, but to shift to that card when dummy showed the particular club holding it did was unpardonable.

TRIBUNE OPENS FREE GOLF SCHOOL TONIGHT

Four Park District Courses Sites.

School Facts

REQUIREMENTS—Bring a golf club and be prompt.

FIRST LESSON—The grip, with preliminary introduction to the stance.

TEACHERS—Members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The 12th annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE, in conjunction with the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, will open tonight on the four courses of the Chicago park district. This oldest and largest system of group instruction in the history of the game now is in its third war time season.

The members of the Illinois section of the P. G. A., who already have set up an extensive war relief program of their own, again have volunteered their services as instructors. They will be on hand at all four park district courses for the duration of the school, ready to teach all golf-minded Chicagoans, regardless of sex, age or ability, the fundamentals of the game in four free lessons.

Study Grip at First Session.

The first lesson, in keeping with the foundation of the school's curriculum on simplicity, will be devoted to the grip, first phase of the fairway primer, with preliminary introduction to the address and the stance.

The same lesson will be given simultaneously on all four courses, each of which will begin promptly at 7:15 o'clock. Each class will continue for approximately one hour. The Illinois P. G. A. members, in recent years, have made a practice of conducting after-class open forums for their students, answering questions on the rules and etiquet of the game. They will repeat that process this year.

The second lesson will be given at the same four courses at the same hour next Friday night, the third on Monday night, May 15, and the fourth and last on Friday night, May 19.

Instructors Donate Time.

All of the P. G. A. members who have donated their services to the school for the 12th consecutive year have indicated that they will be on hand early to greet their pupils. Their gesture is a particularly fine one this season, in view of the fact that many of them are confronted with the war time problem of man power shortage. Until last year, the classes were held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, but last year, the professionals made a sacrifice which they are repeating this year, that of shifting to Monday, their traditional free day, so that more of them may be present to serve on the school's faculty.

Enrollment in the school is another testimonial to the soundness of its originators' search for simplicity. Just appear as promptly as possible [by 7 p. m., if possible] at the course nearest your home or work. Bring one golf club, preferably a driver, for the first lesson. Keep tuned to W-G-N for any changes that may be necessitated by the weather.

Schools Are Well Located.

The location of the four courses which will serve as classrooms for the school, all made available thru the commissioners of the Chicago park district, are particularly happy in these days of transportation stress. They may easily be reached by rapid transit, motor coaches, and surface lines. The four are:

JACKSON PARK—Just east of 63d st. and Stony Island av.

COLUMBUS PARK — Jackson blvd. and Central av.

BARONS DEFEAT CHICAGO GIANTS, 5 TO 3 AND 7 TO 2

The Champion Birmingham Black Barons opened the Negro American league season yesterday with a double victory over the Chicago American Giants, 5 to 3 and 7 to 2, in Comiskey park before 7,500 fans.

Second Baseman Art Pennington hit a home run to pace the Giants.

AWAIT GOLF PUPILS

St. Ignatius Captures Loyola Relays for 4th Straight Year

Table of Points

St. Ignatius	69½	Leo	17
Loyola	41½	St. Rita	6
St. George	20

St. Ignatius High school continued its domination of the state Catholic high school relay meet in the Loyola university stadium yesterday by scoring 69½ points, to 41½ for second place Loyola. It was the fourth consecutive victory for St. Ignatius in the 5 year old carnival.

One record was set when the St. Ignatius shuttle hurdle relay team stepped off the 440 yard distance in 1:01.8 to better the record of 1:02.9 set two years ago by St. Ignatius.

Win Three Relays.

Coach Ralph Malliard's charges had little trouble in scoring their one-sided victory. They won three relays and placed second in the remaining three, while their representatives either won or tied for first place in three of the four individual events.

Loyola was blanked in only one event, the senior half mile relay, and scored only one relay championship, winning the frosh-soph half mile title for the third successive year. Last season Leo tied Loyola for that trophy.

Mount Carmel Third.

Mount Carmel won two relays, but was blanked in two events in which Loyola accumulated eight points. Mount Carmel took second in the final race, the sprint medley relay, to Loyola's third place, but was unable to displace the host team as meet runner-up to St. Ignatius for the fourth consecutive year. Summaries:

HIGH JUMP—Bugler, St. George, and Robinson, St. Ignatius, tied for first; Boehme, Loyola, third; Ryan, Leo, fourth. Height, 5 feet, 4 inches.

POLE VAULT—Garrity, St. Ignatius and J. Scherer, St. George, tied for first; Troman, Loyola and McCormick, St. Ignatius, tied for third. Height, 9 feet, 3 inches.

100 YARD DASH — Won by Tracey, Mount Carmel; O'Brien, Loyola, second; Conway, St. George, third; Moran, St. Ignatius, fourth. Time, 10.7.

PREAKNESS IS PENSIVE'S NEXT TEST SATURDAY

Derby Winner Aims at Turf Triple.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Racing's triple crown, the most difficult accomplishment in the thorobred sport, is the goal of Warren Wright's fleet and hearty Pensive now that the chestnut son of the great Hyperion has safely tucked away the first of the three corners, the 70th running of the historic Kentucky Derby, in which the capable Conn McCreary piloted him to such a splendid and convincing victory Saturday at Churchill Downs.

Next comes the Preakness at Pimlico, a mile and three-sixteenths race carrying a purse of $50,000 added money, to be run next Saturday, then the Belmont Stakes. And Pensive, in the judgment of his wise old trainer, Ben Jones, is ready to contest the issue with several of the same horses he so roundly whipped in the $75,000 Blue Grass fixture, plus those pre-Derby favories which did not run, Pukka Gin, Platter, Olympic Zenith, and Royal Prince.

Jockey McCreary Confident.

Jockey McCreary, one of the best in the land, showed his astuteness and his skill in outriding the rough and ready Eddie Arcaro on Stir Up and George [Iceman] Woolf on Broadcloth in their now famous stretch duel. After Pensive had put four and a half lengths between him and the second place Broadcloth at the finish Saturday, he said:

"I rode in other Kentucky Derbies, and saw all of the action from my place of vantage on a horse way back in the field, but this one was so different. I didn't see a bit of it. I was in the race all the way around and knew I had in Pensive a horse that needed no urging, so I just sat tight and let him go. What a race he ran!"

Has a Way with Horses.

The foxy Jones, the Missouri hillsman who has a way with horses, looked upon Pensive's triumph as something he didn't quite expect, but Mr. Jones doesn't send misfits half way across the country at the last minute just to give his jockeys something to do. Jones made up his mind to let Pensive run in the Derby after Gramps Image had beaten him in the $25,000 Chesapeake, the east's Derby preview a week before the Kentucky classic.

The combination of Eddie Arcaro and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Stir Up had the populace of Louisville and the estimated crowd of 80,000 so worked up that it went to the post a 7 to 5 favorite and as a consequence Pensive returned the tidy little sum of $16.20 for a $2 win ticket, to say nothing of doing real well by his owner. The return to the master of the Calumet Farm was $64,675, a new record for Derby earnings. The old mark was held by Mrs. Payne Whitney's Shut Out, set in the 1942 running of the race which netted her $64,225.

VIKINGS BEATEN, 9-0, IN NATIONAL SOCCER TOURNEY

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 7 [Special].—The Morgan Strassers eliminated the Chicago Vikings from further consideration in the National Open soccer cup play this afternoon when they routed the Chicagoans, 9 to 0, in the second half of a home and home series. The victory gave the Morgans the Western Open title and sent them into the national finals against the Brooklyn Hispanos, scheduled to be played in the New York Polo Grounds.

It was the second straight triumph for the Strassers, who beat the Vikings, 2 to 0, in the first meeting in Chicago.

South Siders Whip Detroit, 4 to 1 and 4 to 2

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 7.—The White Sox tonight rested comfortably in fourth place in the American league race by dint of having twice rallied in the late innings, once in the ninth, to defeat the Tigers, 4 to 1 and 4 to 2. The triumphs made it four in a row for the Chicagoans and were viewed by 25,151 paying fans.

Two unearned runs in the seventh, the last blossoming from the Sox's recently perfected technique in the employment of the squeeze play, gave Bill Dietrich a victory in the opener. In the second game Jimmy Dykes' men staged an uprising in the ninth which combined Thurman Tucker's third hit, Ralph Hodgin's double to right and another single by Tony Cuccinello to push two runs across the plate and break a deadlock.

Two Homers in First Game.

Two homers were hitting highlights of the opener. In the fourth Rudy York poked his second circuit smash of the season into the upper left field tier, and in the eighth Hal Trosky hit his third homer of the year into the upper right field stands after Myril Hoag opened the inning with a single.

Dietrich yielded only four hits in the first encounter and was rarely threatened. However, he had the pressure on inasmuch as Hal Newhouser was his opponent. Newhouser had pitched 18 scoreless innings against the Sox before they finally got his measure today and Ruffus Gentry had to finish for him.

Double Plays Save Lee.

Johnny Gorisca outpitched Thornton Lee by something like a country mile in the second affair, but the Sox left hander was superbly backed, with his mates making double plays in the fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh innings to save his skin and retain their chance for the victory. The South Siders made eight hits, three of them going to Tucker who at the moment is hitting at a .400 clip.

As recorded, Lee's fortunes in the second game were more than a pitcher is usually endowed. Up until the time he went away in the seventh the Tigers made eight hits and had four other runners aboard by virtue of passes.

Sox Take 2 Run Lead.

The Sox moved into a two run lead in the second inning. Trosky opened the half with a single and went to second when Tucker dropped another hit in center. Hodgin attempted to bunt but Gorisca seized the ball and got it to Pinky Higgins in time to force Trosky at third. Cuccinello lined a single to center, scoring Tucker and putting Hodgin on third. When Tom Turner [illegible]d a long fly to Roger Cramer, Hodgin pedaled home after the catch.

Lee Tires in 7th.

The Sox had a chance in the sixth when Trosky singled and Tucker walked with two out but Hodgin's best was a fly to Cramer. In the seventh Turned doubled with one out but never passed second.

Lee's retirement came about when he began to tire in the seventh. Bob Swift opened the half with a hit and Gorisca fanned. When Joe Hoover walked Dykes waved Lee away and brought in the inevitable Gordon Maltzberger who got out of the jam when Skeeter Webb speared Eddie Mayo's line drive and stepped on second to double Swift. That eased the situation and the Sox went to work in a hurry to win it in the ninth.

Sox Make Menacing Moves.

The Sox were their usual helpless selves for six innings of the opener altho they did engage in some mancing gestures in the second inning when they filled the bases on a single by Trosky and a pair of passes. Dietrich struck out to end the half.

In the seventh Newhouser had one man put away when Higgins messed up Johnny Dickshot's grounder. Cuccinello singled to left center, putting Dickshot on third and moved on to second on Metro's throw to third. Mike Tresh singled to center, scoring Dickshot, but Cuccinello stopped at third.

Squeeze Play Turns Trick.

That setup was exactly to the liking of Dykes' boys and they hauled their pet maneuver, the squeeze play, out of the bag, Cuccinello scoring what proved to be the winning run when Dietrich bunted past Newhouser.

The last two Sox runs developed from Hoag's single and Trosky's long homer into the upper right field tier, when Gentry made his relief-role appearance.

LOSING STREAK HITS DOZEN AS GRIMM RETURNS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charles Grimm took charge of the floundering Cubs yesterday but the losing streak that was part of his legacy lingers on. It sprouted to an even dozen yesterday when the eight placers, even tho they revived sufficiently to twice battle into extra innings, succumbed to the wiles and power of Pittsburgh's Pirates before 19,067 customers. The first affair ended by 6 to 5 in the 14th and the second was concluded 3 to 2 in the eleventh when Al Rubeling rammed a homer into the left field seats.

The Cubs were forced to contend with their old tormentor, Rip Sewell, the manipulator of the bazooka pitch, from start to finish of the first debate and while they hit fairly hard they overdid the thing from the Sewell standpoint. Their peppering of his offerings culminated into a two run tying ninth whereupon he apparently called upon whatever he had in reserve. He chilled them off with one hit in the last five sessions—the one hit being produced by Paul Derringer who came into the party as a rescuer and went away the loser.

Elliott Hits Two Homers.

Derringer got into the argument with Sewell because a series of extra base drives—two of them homers by Bob Elliott—made necessary the removal of Ed Hanyzewski just before the Cubs put on their tying ninth. The ex-Red carried the 5 to 5 tie so easily that he turned out five innings on one hit but the break came with one out in the 14th on a single by Hank Camelli. With two out Johnny Barrett lined to left for what should have been a single, but Ed Sauer elected to charge the ball; it skipped past him for a triple and the blunder enabled the winning run to reach the plate.

Hank Wyse was well along toward success in the second game, going into the ninth with a 2 to 0 edge and a three hitter. Meanwhile Preacher Roe, the Pirate starter, had vanished, altho he yielded only four blows in eight innings. Then, with one out in the ninth, Wyse tottered. Three Pirates thumped the ball safely, the two tying runs went home, and in the confusion Manager Frankie Frisch went to the clubhouse at the request of Umpire Jocko Conlan. Frisch was accused of interfering with a play at third.

Cavarretta Hits Triple.

Hanyzewski was in trouble in the opening game as soon as he had turned loose his first pitch. Barrett cracked it into center field for a single, was bunted to second by Coscarart and went home on Russell's single to right. The latter took second on the throw but Hanyzewski was able to subdue the next two gentlemen. The Cubs wiped out this disadvantage in the third when Stanky singled and scored on Cavarretta's triple, and Cavarretta registered on Sauer's long fly to Russell.

Elliott stepped up with one out in the fourth and sent his first homer barging into the left field seats. A moment later the Pirates were ahead by 3 to 2, another run scoring when Dahlgren tripled to right after Cavarretta had dropped Merullo's throw on Gustine's grounder. Then the Cubs tied it on Sewell in the fifth, Stanky exploding a triple and scoring on Cavarretta's fly to Russell.

Cubs Tie Score in Ninth.

Gustine's double and a single by DiMaggio broke the tie by one run in the sixth and in the eighth Boss Frisch was given what he thought was additional comfort by Elliott's homer.

Then business boomed unexpectedly for the Cubs in the ninth,

CARDINALS BEAT REDS, 5-1 AND 1-0, TO REGAIN LEAD

Max Lanier Wins Fourth Straight Game.

St. Louis, Mo., May 7 (AP).—Six hit pitching by both Max Lanier and Al Jurisich gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 5 to 1, 1 to 0 double victory over the Cincinnati Reds today and seated the Cards firmly in the National league leadership, which they temporarily had lost to the Reds yesterday.

Lanier's triumph in the opener was his fourth this season with no losses and it bolstered his record as the leading pitcher in the National league.

Pirates Beat Cubs Twice, 6-5 and 3-2

which Cavarretta and Sauer opened with singles. Nicholson bunted them along and when Pafko dispatched a long fly to DiMaggio, Cavarretta scored and Sauer sprinted to third. He scampered in with the tying run on York's single that Gustine knocked down in deep short.

Show Speed on Basepaths.

The Cubs mixed a little running with their hitting to get their run in the sixth inning of the second game. After two were out Stanky singled to left and stole his way to second. Cavarretta scored him by drilling a single past Coscarart. Cavarretta also stole and Sauer did the best he could about getting him to the plate but DiMaggio foiled the attempt by staging a one handed, leaping catch of a deep fly.

Nicholson isn't hitting, but he did help out with the Cubs' run in the seventh. He led off successfully by coaxing a pass from Roe and going to second on Pafko's bunt. Johnson did the rest. He walloped a two bagger that the agile Di Maggio couldn't quite reach, Nicholson scoring. But Johnson thought he had produced a triple and was nailed going into third.

Frisch Is Banished.

Wyse fanned Pinch Batter Tom O'Brien before trouble popped in the ninth. Barrett started it with a looping double to left and was quickly transported to the plate by a single by Frank Coleman, who batted for Coscarart. Stanky gummed up the proceedings by misjudging a foul hoisted into space by Russell and the latter used the new lease on life to double to center, scoring Frank Zak who ran for Coleman. Russell was cut down when he started back for second after noting that Zak's trip to the plate had been delayed by a stumbling act. It was during this confusion that Boss Frisch was shooed from the premises.

14 PREP GAMES ON CITY LEAGUE SCHEDULE TODAY

The fourth week of sectional play in the City league baseball race begins this afternoon with 14 games scheduled.

In the north section, Amundsen, current leader with an undefeated record in nine games, will face Schurz in Winnemac park. The challenger's record is three victories against five losses.

Crane, Steinmetz Meet.

Crane, currently half a game behind Marshall in the west section, has a chance to close the gap if it defeats Steinmetz in its game in Riis park. Marshall has won six consecutive games while today's contest is Crane's sixth in the section. Last Friday these undefeated teams played a 3 to 3 tie in nine innings. The tie will be played off at the end of the season if its result will affect the sectional standing.

A change is certain to take place in the south section leadership when Calumet, now tied for first place with Fenger, each possessing five victories and one loss, meets Chicago Vocational in Tuley park. Vocational is making a strong bid for a playoff berth, having moved up to third place during the past week. Fenger draws a bye today.

Kelly Faces Phillips.

A postponed game, one of 22, is also on the schedule. It involves Kelly, now a half a game out of first place, and Phillips, which seems to have a strong hold on the cellar position, in Buettner park. A victory for Kelly will place it in a tie with Farragut for the section's top post. Farragut has won four and lost one while Kelly has one less victory.

Milk Flip Has Top Weight at Sportsman's

Sportsman's Park final week of its most successful meeting, spring or fall, begins today with the usual presentation of eight races and the promise that by the time the final race is run Saturday, the fans will have wagered more than $7,000,000 in the 14 afternoons of the sport.

Feature race today is the Sterling, an allowance event at a mile and a sixteenth for 4 year olds and up. This has attracted several thorobreds who did not participate in races during the first portion of the meeting. Among these is Milk Flip, which has been given top weight of 116 pounds. Secondary is the Junior Traffic club fifth race for 3 year olds and up at a mile and a sixteenth. There are two other long races, the seventh at a mile and a sixteenth and the eighth at a mile and 70 yards.

The jockey race, which had been a four-cornered affair, is showing signs of narrowing down between the early leader, Marc Pena, and Eddie Franklin, the 98-pounder who rode three winners Saturday to overhaul his Cuban rival. The other two top liners, Leonard Wegrzyn and Jack Martin, were injured during Sportsman's Park's exciting week-end. It is thought Martin will be able to resume riding today. Wegrzyn may be out for the remainder of the meeting, having suffered a torn shoulder muscle in Saturday's four-horse spill.

DAY INCREASES TENPIN LEAD IN CARLSON MATCH

Increasing his lead to 559 pins for 27 games, Ned Day, West Allis, Wis., national individual match game bowling champion and coholder of the national doubles title also, ran his string of consecutive winning games to 15 in the third nine-game set of his 54 game match against Chicago's Adolph Carlson in Bensinger's Randolph Recreation last night.

The champion won the final game of Friday night's opening block, took all of Saturday night's nine games, and won the first five last night. Day now has 5,884 for the first half of the match, or an average of 217 plus, while Carlson's 5,325 total gives him an average of 197 plus.

Howard P. Savage, for 12 years business manager of the Chicago board of education and former national and state commander of the American Legion, which he helped organize, died yesterday in Hines Memorial hospital after a 10 day illness. He was 59 and lived at 2827 Estes av.

He was elected national commander of the Legion in 1927 and had charge of the organization of the Paris convention of the Legion. In that capacity he arranged for the transportation of 22,000 Legionnaires to Paris, the largest peace time movement of men ever attempted.

Born in Boone, Ia., Savage came to Chicago when he was 15 and entered Lewis Institute. Later he took an engineering course at the University of Wisconsin. He began an athletic career, playing one season as a pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, but gave this up because of a knee injury.

Held Jobs with Elevated.

In 1913 Savage started work as a track foreman for the Metropolitan West Side Elevated railroad, now a part of the Rapid Transit system. He later became general superintendent of maintenance of way for the elevated lines and assistant general manager of the North Shore electric line.

He became business manager of the school board in 1932, and in 1933 served as president of the north shore park board, which was later included in the consolidation of parks into the Chicago Park district.

Surviving him are his widow, Lu Mary, and two children, Ann, 13, and Jay, 11. Services will be held at 10 a. m. Wednesday in St. Margaret Mary Catholic church.

MAYOR PRO TEM ADDS SOME DATA ON NEW SALOON

It's Really 110 Feet from Church.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

Fidel Ghini, mayor pro tem of Highwood, averred yesterday that his drive against village evil would go forward at a great rate today. He denied reports that the North Shore Recreation room, 317 Waukegan av., Highwood, would be allowed to cater to the needs of horse bettors.

"It is closed today," he said, failing to note that there were no horses running about the country on Sunday, "and it will be closed tomorrow."

The establishment was raided Saturday, contributed $200 to the village in a police court fine, and then did a flourishing business in Kentucky Derby bets.

"I Just Take Orders."

Acting Chief of Police Ted Benvenuti, who replaced the deposed Chief John De Smidt, said he couldn't be too sure whether it would be closed or open.

"I just take orders," he said grimly. "I am not happy as chief. The politicians yell at each other and then we get blamed. We police do not get much money anyway."

Mayor Pro Tem Ghini said yesterday that he needed an apology to restore him to his usual gay Sabbath mood. He was credited Saturday with giving a license to his brother-in-law, Harold Snavely, to open a saloon some 97 feet from the Swedish Methodist church.

"I did not issue the license for the saloon," he said. "The village clerk issued the license. I merely okayed it. Besides the saloon is not 100 feet from the church. It is 110 feet."

About the Village Attorney.

Village law forbids saloons within 100 feet of places of worship. The mayor pro tem was quizzed concerning the opinion of Village Atty. Bernard Juron that Ghini has no legal right to assume the job of mayor.

"Yes," he said, "that is what the village attorney says. We were talking the other night in the council about needing a new attorney. If the mayor doesn't get back within two weeks I think we will have a new attorney. We may have a new mayor also."

Meanwhile, there was no word from Mayor Charles Portilla, who is in a hospital in Rochester, Minn. Deposed Chief De Smidt was reported yesterday enjoying the fish which he had gone out to catch Friday night while a special council meeting was looking about for him. No one in the village knew what kind of fish they were.

GAMBLER SLAIN; HUNT FRIEND.

Michigan City police yesterday sought an associate of Booker T. Phillips, alias Jones, Negro, who disappeared shortly after Phillips, a small time gambler, was shot to death in the Negro quarter early in the day.

SOME STATES REDUCE BURDEN ON TAXPAYERS

Cut Levies as Fiscal Status Improves.

In a period of increasing federal taxes, a few state governments as a result of an improved fiscal position have been able to ease the burden on taxpayers thru a reduction of tax rates or allowance of credits, a report by the Federation of Tax Administrators showed yesterday.

Oregon imposed an income tax solely to replace the state levy on property, reduced the corporation tax rate from 8 to 2 per cent for 1943 and cut the personal tax by three-quarters and repealed the surtax. Iowa granted a credit of 50 per cent of the income tax, effective in February, 1943.

Maryland Grants Credit.

Maryland established a credit of 33⅓ per cent of the individual income tax in March last year and later increased it to 50 per cent. California reduced rates in various brackets, making the maximum tax for individuals 6 per cent. Pennsylvania reduced the tax rate from 7 to 4 per cent for 1943, eliminated the gross receipts tax on merchants, and reduced other taxes.

State tax revenues in general last year remained at approximately their high 1942 level, the survey showed. Continued upward tendencies of some revenues, especially those from net income, sales, and tobacco taxes, were balanced generally by downward trends in several excise taxes, particularly on gasoline and liquor.

"The sales tax was an important factor in holding revenues to 1942 levels in 27 states," the report said. "Increases in sales tax yields took place despite rationing and shortage of consumer goods and, in some states, a decline in the number of retail stores."

Gas Tax Income Dips.

Analysis of California sales tax receipts showed most of the increase was from sales of aircraft supplies, meals, and drinks. Nation-wide revenues from motor fuel taxes were about 20 per cent less than in 1942. Every state taxing cigarets realized more from this source in 1943 than in 1942, altho the percentage of increase for all states was only 7 per cent.

The federation predicted liquor taxes will continue to decline as stocks are reduced. It said gasoline taxes have reached a leveling point, sales taxes will be a fruitful source of income as long as full employment and free spending continue, and net income taxes will produce large yields.

UNION BAG FIRST QUARTER INCOME TOTALS $423,236

New York, May 7 (AP).—Union Bag and Paper corporation reported first quarter net income of $423,236, equal to 33 cents a share, compared with a deficit of $188,074 a year earlier. Net income in the final quarter of 1943, after year-end adjustments, was $387,724, equal to 30 cents a share.

RAIL REORGANIZATIONS.

I hold 150 shares of the old common stock of the Chicago and North Western railroad, and have been informed it is worthless. How can new common stock be issued by the company without considering the original common stockholders who bought the stock in good faith?

S. Z.

Answer: Reorganization of insolvent railroads is carried out under a special section, 77, of the national bankruptcy act. The interstate commerce commission is given wide authority in determining what the capitalization of a reorganized railroad shall be, and the commission has insisted upon drastic debt reduction.

Reorganization plans under section 77 are subject to approval by the federal court. The court takes into account whether the various classes of security holders are treated equitably. The District, Appellate, and Supreme courts have refused to order a revision of the North Western reorganization program so that holders of the old common stock might share in the new company. The holders of preferred stock in the old company also are wiped out under the reorganization plan.

The new preferred and common shares will be distributed to secured and unsecured creditors of the old company.

Fair Tax Held Challenge to 'Risk Capital'

Dr. M. H. Hunter.

Post-war taxation should be of such a nature that it encourages private enterprise and allows sufficient return to challenge "venture capital," Dr. Merlin H. Hunter, professor of economics at the University of Illinois, said yesterday.

"Some persons who stand high in the counsel of the administration deliberately affirm that our economy has reached a state of maturity, and as a result little is left to be accomplished thru private initiative," Hunter said. "Geographic frontiers may be limited, but evidence indicates that mental frontiers lie far beyond the horizon.

Favorable Economy Urged.

"One of the musts of the immediate post-war years will be to establish and preserve an economy conducive to the maximum production of goods. The tax system must allow a sufficient return to challenge 'venture capital.'

"If we do not do this, capital will flow to other countries. The owners of the capital may even follow it. Taxation must not be pushed beyond the point where it begins to repress the normal development of private enterprise.

"If it does, society will suffer from decreased production, and government will suffer from decreased income. If our present taxes crush business or hinder its expansion and development, from what source can government hope to continue to finance its enterprises, to say nothing of paying interest and liquidating debts?"

"Pay War Costs Now."

Hunter predicted the government will be asked to redeem war bonds when "fiscal problems will be most difficult." He urged that payment of war costs be met thru current taxation instead of postponed thru sale of bonds.

"Buying bonds as a backlog of savings to buy goods after the war or as capital to open business is a fallacy," he said. "The bonds are not legal tender, and cannot be used for purchases. They must be converted into cash by redempton."

Bulk Freight Fleet Shifted to Ore Trade

Cleveland, O., May 7 [Special].—Bulk freighters that have been hauling grain since the opening of the season have been ordered into the ore trade by the office of defense transportation. The ruling insures a minimum movement of 11 million tons this month, shippers said today.

Handicapped by a late start and adverse weather, vessels loaded only 5,288,079 tons of ore in April. Altho shipments represented an increase of 3,333,262 tons above a year ago, the fleet has a deficit of approximately 4½ million tons to make up in the next three months and will need all available tonnage.

Grain Cargoes at Peak.

With bulk freighters loading record cargoes, April shipments of grain were the largest in many years and resulted in congestion at lower lakes elevators. As a result, the ODT shifted the big vessels back to the ore trade by requiring that owners obtain permits before loading grain. Up to April 24, vessels hauled 35,505,848 bushels of grain against 38,154,000 bushels up to June 1, last year.

Grain shipped to date has been largely government owned and came from Canadian ports to relieve the shortage of live stock feed.

11 Million Tons Needed.

After moving only 1,954,817 tons of ore in April last year, all large vessels were kept in the ore trade under the ODT permit system and May shipments climbed to 10,974,672 tons. The movement for this month will have to exceed 11 million tons to erase any sizable part of the deficit.

Coal vessels loaded 1,529,435 tons of cargo oil in the week ended May 1, compared with 894,731 tons in the same week last year. Shipments for the season up to May 1 aggregated 6,279,331 tons, against 4,807,959 tons a year ago.

EXPORT LINES TELL WAR TIME SHIPPING GAINS

New York, May 7 (AP).—American Export Lines now operate more than 80 ships compared with 27 just prior to Pearl Harbor, the company's annual report disclosed today. Seventy of the vessels have been assigned to it by the maritime commission.

The shipping concern said operations of the 80 ships require 4,000 officers and men and added that, as agent for the war shipping administration, it has been responsible for cargo accounts of an additional 1,000 or more other American merchant ships engaged in war tasks.

The company reported net income of $1,449,563 for 1943, compared with $5,815,291 for the preceding year. In addition to 1943 net, direct credits to surplus amounted to $1,541,060, a total credit to surplus of $2,990,624.

Vessels lost by enemy action since Pearl Harbor included the Exmoor, Examelia, Excello, Expositor, Executive, and Express, the annual report said. It added that the Excalibur and Exeter were lost in the invasion of North Africa in November, 1942, and the Exochorda sunk off Guadalcanal in August, 1943.

The report by showing a reduction in earnings was in line with a WSA statement of May 4 which said steamship rates and values had been "drastically" reduced since the outbreak of war "in the face of an upward inflationary trend of our economic system and contrary to all past experiences in war time."

ASSERTS MANY WILL QUIT WORK WHEN WAR ENDS

New York, May 7 (AP).—Most of the newcomers in the present labor force are likely to eliminate themselves from competition for jobs after the war, a study for the National Bureau of Economic Research said today.

Clarence D. Long, who undertook to analyze the present war-swollen working force, found that so many probably would leave their jobs at the end of the war that the final net increase in the number hunting jobs would be about in proportion to population increase.

Long said that at any time many workers would give up their jobs if the family bread winner should find work or get a raise in wages. Concerning women in industry, Long said they were more noticeable on the whole not because of a large increase in their number as much as because of the exodus of men.

Federal Corn Buying Plan Held Success

The government corn purchase program to obtain 80 million bushels of cash grain within 60 days, enough to cover requirements of essential industries until the new crop is available this fall, will succeed, leading members of the Chicago Board of Trade said yesterday.

Altho industrial needs will be supplied, warehouse men and brokers familiar with the corn situation contend a severe shortage of grain for the use of feeders and feed manufacturers will develop later unless consumption is curtailed drastically. April 1 stocks of corn thruout the country were officially estimated at 1 billion 162 million bushels, a decrease of 328 million bushels below a year ago.

Planting Plans Changed.

Excessive rainfall during the last three months in the southwest and midwest has brought a decided change in the planned acreage of various grains. On March 1 farmers reported they expected to seed 46 million acres of oats, but estimates last week indicated that not more than 41 million acres would be planted. Barley is expected to fall 1 to 2 million acres below the 15 million acres planned several months ago.

Any reduction in oats and barley acreage is expected to be offset by an increase in corn and soy beans. Planting of 100 million acres of corn and 15 million acres of soy beans was forecast, but the estimate is expected to be raised if labor and weather conditions permit.

Large Area Is Flooded.

The field work delay this year has been the longest in many years and little land has been plowed for corn in the midwest. Several million acres of rich bottom land along the Illinois, Mississippi, and Missouri rivers are under water and will go largely into corn if weather permits.

A downward revision in the carry-over of wheat at the end of the current crop year was forecast by the department of agriculture. If the disappearance in the last quarter of the 1943-'44 season equals that of a year earlier the carryover will be about 250 million bushels, compared with 618 million bushels on June 30, 1943. The total North American carryover is expected to be 625 million bushels, about 50 per cent below a year ago.

Jewel Tea Sales in April Show Gains Over 1943

Jewel Tea company, Barrington, Ill., yesterday reported retail sales of $4,122,020 in the four weeks ended April 22, an increase of 6.62 per cent from a year earlier. Sales in the first 16 weeks of 1944 aggregated $16,392,835, a decline of 1.29 per cent from the corresponding 1943 period.

CO-OPS REPORT RECORD SALES OF 750 MILLION

Post-War Growth Is Expected.

New York, May 7 (AP).—United States coöperatives have made their biggest strides during the war despite man power and supply shortages and their post-war goal is to become "a yardstick for business," the Coöperative league said today.

The league—principal coödinating unit for the coöperative movement in this country—said total sales in 1943 were at a record high of 750 million dollars and that savings to consumers amounted to more than 50 millions.

Wallace J. Campbell, New York, head of the league, said sales of farm supplies—feed, fertilizer, equipment, seeds—accounted for about two-thirds of the total and next were dealings in oil products and petroleum, which amounted to 13 per cent of the aggregate.

113 Manufacturing Plants.

He said local, regional, and national coöperatives own 113 manufacturing plants, two-thirds of which have been acquired since 1940. They have about 2,000 farm supply establishments, 2,500 gasoline and petroleum product outlets, and 1,100 grocery stores.

"In the post-war years we want to have more of everything," Campbell said. "In the east we'd like to place more emphasis on gasoline stations and outlets for petroleum products and in the midwest, where we already have many oil stations, we'd like to open more grocery stores.

"Our manufacturing operations have been successful and we wish to expand them. There will be plenty of work in rehabilitating employes returning from the war and we plan extensive training programs to bring such workers up to date.

Expect Foreign Development.

"We expect to expand our activities in the international field. When the war started oil from a coöperative in Kansas City was going to similar groups in France, Belgium, Sweden, and other countries. Sweden and Denmark bought products such as dried fruit from American sources."

Campbell said Hitler succeeded in eliminating most co-ops in occupied countries but that before the war approximately 25 per cent of the population of those countries had been members.

STEEL DELIVERY PUSHED AS NEW ORDERS DECLINE

Cleveland, O., May 7 (AP).—The rate of steel buying was reported slightly easier today by the magazine Steel, which said in its weekly market summary that many orders scheduled for delivery weeks ahead are being brought forward where there is a possible chance for mills to increase their load.

Pressure for steel billets six to seven inches square, to be used for making shells, is taking much of the steel allocated for bars and structural shapes, causing large deferments in shape deliveries.
